FOUR MARINES KILLED; ADMIRAL SUTHERLAND'S ASSAULT ON THE REBELS

UNCLE SAM TAKES PART IN BLOODY CONFLICT WITH NICARAGUAN REBELS.

IS NOT A STATE OF WAR

Victorious End of the Battle Which is One of Bloodiest in History of Central America.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Oct. 5.—Four American marines were killed and six wounded yesterday when the American forces took the town of Coyotepe from the Nicaraguan rebels, according to a cablegram received early today from Minister Carrillo, from Chamorro, minister of affairs in Nicaragua.

The cablegram of Minister Carrillo, dated Nicaragua, Oct. 4th, was as follows: "Masaya taken today by assault. We have 100 dead, 200 wounded. Americans early took Coyotepe with four dead and six wounded. Coyotepe simultaneously taken and Baranca. Valendon fled with followers and captured eight leagues from Masaya, wounded and died later.

"Today I visited the American legation to express deepest sympathy for the marines' death. Granada municipality requests marines' bodies for burial at that city. I beg you to express to the department of state my deepest sympathy.

"Minister of Affairs Chamorro." Valendon, referred to in the cablegram, is the rebel general, a Hungarian in the employ of Mena, who was recently captured and taken to Panama for exile.

Though the lives of American marines have been lost and others have been wounded in what appears to have been one of the most sanguinary battles fought in Central America in many years, yet technically the United States is not engaged in war. As defined by the state department, the status of the relations between the United States and Nicaragua is one of friendship.

What Rear Admiral Sutherland has done in attacking the Nicaraguan rebels is declared to have been purely in pursuance of the duty imposed upon the navy many times in the history of Central America—that of forcibly protecting American lives and property as well as the citizens of European nations.

The admiral has strictly refrained from intervening in any way between the warring factions in Nicaragua and has confined himself entirely to opening up railway communication and maintaining it free from interruption that the large foreign element scattered through the Nicaraguan towns might be able to receive food.

The regiment of marines was on both sides of Baranca hills in command of Col. John H. Pendleton. The first and second battalions were between Managua and Masaya and near Masaya. The third battalion was between Masaya and Granada and also near Masaya so it is impossible to judge in which battalion the fatalities probably occurred as all were close to the fighting.

The first battalion was under command of Major William N. McKelby and was composed of Companies A, B, C and D, drawn from New York, Norfolk, Boston, Portsmouth, Annapolis, Charleston and Washington.

The second battalion, under command of Major George C. Reed, was composed of Companies E, F and G, drawn from Philadelphia. The third battalion, under command of Major Smedley D. Butler, was drawn from Panama.

The revenue cutter, Algonquin, has left San Juan for Mayaguez, in the Mont Passage between Porto Rico and Haiti to establish cable communication between Washington and the cruiser Prairie at San Domingo harbor with marines. The state department now can get word to the Prairie only by a circuitous route by way of Bogota.

RACINE WINS IN ITS CASE AGAINST WATER COMPANY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Racine, Oct. 5.—A decision upholding the city council proceedings was received here today by the Racine Water company in the case of the city against the water company for the purchase of the plant. About a year ago the city made applications to the state rate commission to fix a price for the purchase of the plant. The commission set about $700,000, but the attorneys for the water company appealed claiming the city council proceedings were null and void.

Embodied by 84 years, worn and weary from her long tramp the woman was a pitiful figure in court as she told of alleged abandonment by her son, who is a prosperous farmer in Gibson.

WILSON'S CAR DAMAGED IN NEAR-WRECK LAST NIGHT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Omaha, Oct. 5.—Gov. Wilson arrived in Omaha this morning and was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd at the station. He rode at the head of an automobile parade through the city hall, where he held an informal reception. The governor slept peacefully through a near-wreck last night. A freight engine side-swiped the rear of the observation car in his train and the car in which the governor was sleeping was slightly damaged. He did not know of the accident until informed of it today. He planned to address the students of Creighton University.

SIXTEEN BATTLESHIPS DUE TO ARRIVE IN NEW YORK.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 5.—Before this time next week the mightiest fleet of warships ever assembled under the American flag will be fixed at anchor in the Hudson river. Rear Admiral Osterhaus is due to arrive with sixteen battleships tomorrow, being followed on Thursday next by the reserve, including eleven battleships and four armored cruisers. Other arrivals before the end of the week will make a total of 22 battleships, 4 armored cruisers, 4 protected cruisers, 21 special type vessels, 3 colliers, 6 naval militia ships, 26 destroyers, 19 torpedo boats and 10 submarines, a total of 127 vessels. The secretary of the navy will inspect the vessels on Monday of next week and the next day the fleet will be reviewed by President Taft.

MUCH INTEREST TAKEN IN COMING BY-ELECTION

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 5.—Nominations were made today for the by-election in the MacDonald constituency. The election is fixed for next Saturday and the contest promises to be one of the most spectacular in the history of the West. R. L. Richardson, publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune, and former member of parliament for Lisgar, is running as independent candidate with the support of the Liberals. The Conservative candidate is Alexander Morrison, a farmer of the Carman district, who has for many years been more or less prominent in public affairs. Freer trade, including a greater preference to Britain with the United States, is the main issue of Mr. Richardson's campaign. He expects to roll up a large majority in the rural districts on the wider markets platform, while the city voters are relied upon by the Conservative interests to hold the seat.

EXTRA!

DE PALMA AND HIS MECHANICIAN ARE REPORTED KILLED BRAGG WINS RACE

Wantosa Race Course, Oct. 5.
4:30—Caliph Bragg won the Grand Prix race here this afternoon. De Palma and his mechanic, Tom Ale, driving wildly in the last lap, ran into a ditch and are reported killed.

Bragg's time for the race, over 409 miles, was 5 hours, 59 minutes, and 29 seconds. Average for race, 68.1-2 miles per hour.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Race Course, Wantosa, Wis., Oct. 5.—The biggest crowd of the week gathered here today to witness the $10,000 Grand Prix automobile road race. Under ideal weather and track conditions drivers lined up at the starting point expecting to break all records for the new course in their desire to win the big purse.

Eleventh hour changes in the list of starters this morning aroused much interest. The race was started at 10:08. The complete list of cars and drivers to line up at the tape for the start were: Burman, Benz, Fontaine, Lozier, Tetzlaf, Fiat, Hughes, Mercer, De Palma, Mercedes, Wishart, Mercedes, Clark, Mercedes, Bergal, Benz, Bragg, Fiat, Horan, Benz, Anderson, Stutz, Oldfield, Fiat.

Bob Burman was the first of the 12 contestants to start. The other drivers then were started at 30 second intervals. Fannie Oldfield was the last to get the word. Caliph Bragg, the ninth driver to be sent away on the 410-mile grind was given an ovation by the thousands in the stands. His unexpected appearance at the steering wheel of his big red Fiat started round after round of cheering.

Bergal, De Palma and Tetzlaf were about even favorites in the betting, although much late money was wagered on Bragg at the course. Tetzlaf drove the fastest first lap, sending his car around the 7.58 mile course in 6 minutes 20 seconds from starting start of a speed of 74 1/2 miles per hour which he pushed up to 75 miles per hour in the second lap.

The enthusiasm of the crowds was much greater than during the running of the Vanderbilt cup race on Wednesday. Bob Burman was forced to withdraw from the race at the end of 15 miles because of a broken piston in his Benz car. He was the first to fall by the wayside under the terrific pace set by the leaders. At the end of the first 30 miles Tetzlaf was in the lead driving at a speed of 78 miles an hour.

Caliph Bragg was in second position 12 seconds behind Tetzlaf, having driven his third lap at a speed of 77 miles per hour. Spencer Wishart was third. Wishart broke a crank shaft in his Mercedes car in the 4th lap and had to quit the race. Bergal jumped into third place when Wishart was forced out. At the end of 55 miles Tetzlaf still continued to lead. He was being closely pushed by Caleb Bragg in second position. Bergal was third, and De Palma fourth.

The leaders had increased the speed from 74 to 77 miles per hour. Joe Horan, Gil Anderson, and Geo. Clark kept the crowds at a high pitch of excitement for a dozen minutes when they raced 2 laps so closely bunched that even patrol judges expected to see one of the cars go into the ditch. De Palma had driven into third place at the end of 60 miles when Bergal stopped for tires and gasoline. At the end of 75 miles Tetzlaf was leading Bragg by 15 seconds. De Palma was nearing Bragg and Bergal was well up in fourth position. The speed average for this distance was 75.5 miles per hour.

Louis Fontaine, attempted to send his Lozier car around the south end of the Lac road turn at high speed and ran through the bunkers of baled hay on the outer edge of the turn and into the fence. Neither Fontaine nor his mechanic were seriously hurt and resumed the race.

At the end of 10 miles or practically one-fourth of the total distance, Caleb Bragg led Tetzlaf by one minute and 1 second. Ralph De Palma was in third place. Joe Horan was fourth and Gil Anderson fifth. Bragg had averaged a speed of 74 and 2-5 miles per hour for this distance.

After losing first position by change of his right rear tire at 36 miles Tetzlaf began to make up lost time rapidly. At 100 miles he was a minute behind Bragg. Then he drove the fastest lap of the race up to this point, going around the course in 6 minutes and 7 seconds. He gained 34 seconds on Bragg in this lap.

This was at a speed of 77-1-5 miles per hour. At 110 miles Tetzlaf was

BALKAN STATES, LONG HOSTILE TO THEIR NEIGHBOR ON THE SOUTH, THINK TIME HAS COME TO STRIKE BLOW AT THE TURK

Confident that the time has at last come when a war with Turkey will result in a victory for their arms, Greece and the Balkan states are preparing to strike a blow at the Ottoman Empire. The whole of the Balkan peninsula is being transformed into an armed camp. If war comes, King Ferdinand of Bulgaria will lead the Balkan forces. The present trouble arises from the neglected demand by the Balkan kingdoms that Turkey improve the conditions prevailing among her Christian inhabitants in Macedonia and Albania.

but 8 seconds behind Bragg and was putting up a masterly drive to regain the lead.

Tetzlaf at the end of 244 miles lost the lead and the race when a distance rod in his Fiat car was broken. Bragg then took first position, followed closely by De Palma.

After having furnished much of the excitement of the early part of the race, Louis Fontaine had to withdraw in his twenty-second lap because of a broken steering knuckle in his Lozier car.

At the end of 275 miles Bragg led De Palma in second place by more than 9 minutes. Erwin Bergal was in third place two laps behind Bragg. Gil Anderson was in fourth place four laps behind Bragg. Barney Oldfield was fifth.

Of the twelve starters in the race five had been eliminated from the contest by mechanical troubles and minor accidents by the time the leaders had finished the first one-half of the long race.

ROOSEVELT TALKED ABOUT THE INQUIRY

New York, Oct. 5.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived here at 7:30 this morning from Washington where he testified yesterday before the senate investigation committee regarding contributions to the republican campaign funds in 1904. William Loeb, Jr., his former secretary, who was also a witness before the senate committee, accompanied him, and together they went to the Harvard club for breakfast. Colonel Roosevelt spent a short time at his editorial office this morning and will leave at noon for Oyster Bay. In reply to questions, Colonel Roosevelt said, "I commented on a good many things yesterday, and won't have a word to say today."

While passing through the Pennsylvania railway station on the way to his auto Colonel Roosevelt saw a woman carrying a baby and accompanied by five other children all under ten years of age. He stopped to question the woman and when he learned that she was a widow and the sole support of her six small children, the colonel spoke a few words of encouragement and handed her a greenback. The woman was Mrs. Ann Hunter and said she was about to sail for Scotland with her children.

REUTER MURDER CASE ON TRIAL NEXT WEEK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 5.—The Reuter murder case, one of the most sensational in the records of Tulsa, was called in court today and it is expected the trial will get under way the first of next week. Charles T. Reuter, a lawyer, formerly of Peoria, Ill., was murdered in his home in the best residence section of this city on the night of May 5 last. The police investigation resulted in indictments against Mrs. Laura N. Reuter, widow of the slain man, and Guy D. Mackenzie, "Dud" Bellow and Joe Baker. Bellow is alleged to have confessed that the motive for the murder was "love, revenge and robbery, though declaring at the same time that the wife had no knowledge that her husband was to be killed. Mrs. Reuter is confident of acquittal, and public sentiment now appears to be strong in her favor.

URGES FOR MCGOVERN AS WELL AS COLONEL

HENRY ALLEN OF KANSAS IN SPEECH HERE ASKS VOTERS TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT AND MCGOVERN.

LA FOLLETTE MISTAKEN

Greatly Admires Senator But Fears He is on Wrong Side of Fence — Declines Taft Prosperity Agitation.

"I hope that you progressives in Wisconsin will lay aside your petty differences, forget your disappointment in the failure of Senator La Follette, and vote for Governor McGovern for governor and Theodore Roosevelt for president at the polls in November," said Henry Allen, noted editor of Wichita, Kansas in closing his address in behalf of the Bull Moose cause at the Myers theatre last evening.

Mr. Allen had very little to say concerning McGovern beyond this exhortation which was generally taken to indicate that the progressive party plainly considered the Wisconsin governor as a member of its ranks in spite of the fact that he seeks re-election on the state republican ticket.

The speaker had something to say in regard to Senator La Follette. He believed that the Senator was on the wrong side of the fence and he was sorry for that. He had been a great admirer of the Wisconsin senator and in the early months of the year had worked for him in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. But the La Follette cause was not popular there, he said, and he went on to show how at primary elections in those states the vote went overwhelmingly for Roosevelt at a time when that man had refused to be a candidate.

Mr. Allen's speech dealt first, last and all the time with Colonel Roosevelt, his achievements, his greatness, his ability and his superiority in comparison with other candidates and other causes. Once during his address he mentioned Governor Johnson, the Colonel's running mate, and simply said he was glad for him, as it meant that the progressive party was at least a two man party, and he was also glad for Jane Addams because with her adherence to the cause it meant that it was at least a two man and one woman party.

Beginning at the very start of the Roosevelt agitation Mr. Allen reviewed the contests in the primary with the purpose of showing that an overwhelming popular demand for Colonel Roosevelt's nomination existed in the early months of the year. The results in California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New Jersey New York and Ohio were emphatic for Roosevelt he said. In the latter state the President was so confident in fact that he said before the primary, "If the people of my own state do not give me their support, I shall be forced to withdraw my candidacy." Ohio went against Mr. Taft, said the speaker, and Mr. Taft straightway forgot his promise.

Mr. Allen took up the republican convention beginning with the bearing of the contests before the national committee in an attempt to show that the Taft organization had robbed the Colonel of his delegates.

In response to a call he drew from the audience, the Kansas orator told of the Roosevelt achievements. The corrective railroad bill, establishment of bureau of commerce and labor, securing the open door to China, settling the anthracite coal strike, ending the years of debate and actually starting the Panama canal, establishing peace between Russia and Japan, instituting suit against the sugar, beet, tobacco and oil trusts, conservation and other achievements were recounted and elaborated on.

Taft's record proved him a reactionary. "Roosevelt has made one mistake in endorsing him for president, but it was such a mistake as any man might make in endorsing a note for a friend, who later skips out. Right after Taft's election Roosevelt said, 'I'll get out of here and no one will have the chance to say I am running you or the government.' So he packed his guns and went to Africa. He told Taft that the people expected him to carry out certain public policies. Before he had bagged a single lion in Africa, dear Will had carried out these policies—on a shutter—and dumped them in the back yard of the Cannons, Penroses, Pains and Gugenhelms."

The great cry that was now heard in favor of Taft's re-election was to continue the present prosperity. This the speaker decried as foolishness. A change in administration could not change the production of the soil he declared.

Mr. Allen had little to say concerning the democrats, his theme was "Theodore Roosevelt." However, he said he took Woodrow Wilson at his word and believed he was a progressive. But the democratic party had never been progressive.

An audience of some three hundred men and a few suffragists heard Mr. Allen's address which was an able appeal. There was little enthusiasm shown in the way of applause and the band did not play "Onward Christian Soldiers."

MISS M'CLURE WILL BE LAUREAN CRITIC

High School Literary Society Secures Services of Faculty Member—Not to Publish Phoenix.

The Laurean literary society of the high school has secured the services of Miss McClure of the faculty as critic for the present school year. McClure is a new member of the faculty beginning her work at the local school this fall. Under her direction the Laurean members hope to enjoy another successful year.

No Phoenix Publication. After consultation with Supt. Buell and other members of the high school faculty the Junior Class has decided not to publish a high school book this year. The financial burden which such a publication would incur was the main reason for the decision.

REFORM MEASURE IS MOST FARFICAL ONE IN REAL PRACTICE

Campaign Book Proves Failure—Only Fifteen Candidates in All Seek Publicity in Pamphlet.

Secretary of State Frear has sent to the printer copy for the political pamphlet, provided for by the corrupt practices act and which is to be mailed when printed to the 450,000 voters of the state. It is evident at the beginning that the scheme is a failure as a great educative factor in the affairs political of the commonwealth whatever may be the merits of the idea to place in the hands of the electors an official and reliable symposium of the views of candidates, their claims to preferment, etc. The fact is that the candidates refuse to come across and as a result the publication will be a sorry spectacle, some 16 pages at the most in the majority of senatorial districts.

Out of more than 400 candidates for state, congressional and legislative positions only 15 have availed themselves of the privileges which the pamphlet offers in the way of publication. It will be a sorry spectacle, some sixteen pages at the most in the majority of senatorial districts.

Out of more than 400 candidates for state, congressional and legislative positions only fifteen have availed themselves of the privileges which the pamphlet offers in the way of publicity with not a prohibition of social democrat in the list. Four of the fifteen candidates are democrats and all the others republicans, while only one candidate for state office will have place in the little book. Charles A. Kading, democratic candidate for attorney general, is the only aspirant for state office whose copy will find its way into the pamphlet and it will be interesting to note the results of the publicity thus secured in the November returns.

Two congressmen, one democrat and one republican, M. E. Burke in the second district and H. A. Cooper in the first, will be given space, the former two pages and the latter one.

Two candidates for senatorial preferment, Otto Besshard in the thirty-second district and H. A. Huber in the twenty-sixth, will each have a page. The others who will seek publicity in the pages of the little pamphlet are all candidates for the assembly: Fred L. Holmes, first district of Dane county; L. L. Johnson, Door county; Jeremiah O'Neill, Crawford county; J. E. McConnell, La Crosse county; R. J. Nye, Superior; J. R. Hoffstater, Sauk county, and Chris Paulus, M. J. Lenterman, Lawrence N. Conlin, Brick C. Stern, all of Milwaukee. Hoffstater and O'Neill are democrats, while the others are republicans.

Eleven pages will be devoted to statements by political party committees, six being used by the republicans, one by the social democrats, two by the suffragist advocates and two by the anti-suffragists. Three pages will be devoted to the constitutional amendments to be submitted together with explanatory notes. The pamphlets are printed in editions for senatorial districts and only those candidates who are running in a particular district will be given space in the pamphlets printed for that district. The only candidate who will secure the publicity of the entire publication is Charles A. Kading, democratic candidate for attorney general.

Years of Suffering

Cataract and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Port Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with cataract and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of it, and medicine was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from cataract." Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

A NEWSPAPER MAN WRITES AN OPEN LETTER TO DR. HARTMAN

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

I give below an extract from a letter written me by the business manager of one of the leading newspapers of this country. He said in part:

"I was very much interested in your article about the use of alcohol in patent medicines. As you are a doctor running in my paper more or less for the last twenty years, I have been frequently criticized for advertising your remedy on the ground that it contained alcohol and was therefore harmful."

"I am not a doctor myself and do not profess to know anything about such subjects. But I wish I had been supplied with the information contained in your article years ago. Your article exactly meets all the objections that I have had to contend with."

"That alcohol is a useful drug and is the active principle of wine, beers, cider and other beverages is to me a new thought. That it is a useful remedy and assists the other ingredients in making a cure, I cannot doubt after reading your article."

"I think so much of your article that I am going to have a reprint of it made and strike off thousands of them, which I shall mail to objectors as they may arise in the future."

Your articles convey a great deal of information to the public. I think the newspapers can well afford to publish them gratis, for the articles you have been furnishing me lately constitute some of the best things that occur in my paper. I wish you continued success in your magnificent work."

My dear Sir.—I appreciate your letter. It is not the only one of the kind I have received.

I know that Peruna has been greatly misrepresented and misunderstood. I have not had time heretofore to answer these objections. I have been too busy in my many enterprises. My great farm, with its various departments, has so thoroughly engaged my enthusiasm and attention in times past that I could give little heed to critics.

But I have taken up the matter now. My farm is in the hands of intelligent overseers and my other business is all organized in such a way that I can give my attention to these matters. I am proposing now to explain to the public all there is to say about Peruna, knowing full well, as soon as the public understands it that the malicious things said about Peruna will be quickly forgotten.

FIRST GAME OF SERIES WAS PLAYED YESTERDAY

The first game of the new indoor baseball league at the round house was played yesterday afternoon, between the car department and the motive power department. The final score being 13 to 4 in favor of the motive power men. The game was very closely contested all the way through. The car department hit the ball much more. The feature of the game was the batting of Chris Rail for the car department; and the pitching of the motive power twirler. The latter was the star pitcher of the Logan Squares, for two seasons and many of the boys look on him as a corner in this line. The next game will be played Monday afternoon.

Ed. Konecny, of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes that Joe Wood is the important cog for the Boston Red Sox in the world's series. "In my estimation that first game is going to settle the result," he says. "I haven't seen Wood, but his record and what other fellows tell me makes me believe that he must win for Boston. If Wood wins that first game, then I don't think the Giants will be able to stop the Red Sox. However, let the Giants get that first one, and it wouldn't surprise me if McGraw goes over."

"The trump card for the Giants will be Tesreau. He can stand a lot of work and I look for him to pitch at least three of the games."

In spite of Konecny's prophecy, word comes from New York that McGraw counts on Rube Marquard being as big a factor in the world's series as Ted Tesreau. McGraw believes that Marquard was overworked in his attempt to beat the record for straight victories, and now prophecies that Rube, who has recovered from his breakdown, can and will duplicate his phenomenal pitching of last spring.

That Princeton will not win the football championship of the east this fall is the opinion of Lowell Dana, coach of the University of Cincinnati eleven, and former star lineman at Dartmouth.

"Princeton will be up against it for a strong line," says Dana. "Three of the best men of last year, Sam White, left end; Ed. Hart, left tackle, and Duff guard, are missing. White's sensational work was really responsible for Princeton's defeat of both Yale and Harvard last year and their winning of the American football championship. The Tigers, however, have a strong backfield and this may compensate for the weakness of their line.

"Harvard will have a good team. Captain Wendell is the best line buck developed in the east in many years. Brickley, who played one of the halfbacks on the freshman team will prove a valuable addition to the Crimson's backfield. The other line looks pretty good."

New Orleans boxing enthusiasts are happy for this winter 15-round contests can be held there and 45-round affairs can be witnessed across the river. Decisions also can be given.

Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is all stirred up over the charges of Owner Fogel of the Phillies and President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs, that the Giants won the pennant through favoritism shown by the umpires. "Murphy and Fogel should be made to prove their wild assertions about the umpires, and fail to do so they should be driven out of organized baseball," declares McGraw. "It is strange that they are the only club owners who have cast reflection on the honesty of baseball. If there was anything wrong, why didn't some other club owners make a kick, too?"

While the American game of baseball has been trying for years to gain a foothold in other lands, the Canadian national game of lacrosse has in a short time become a world sport. Baseball is confined almost entirely to Americans and Canadians, and has just recently been taken up by Chinese and Japanese. Lacrosse, on the other hand, is played not only by Canadians alone, but by Yankees, Englishmen, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans and Japanese.

BOSTON BALL FANS READY FOR SERIES

Followers of National Sport Get Tickets for Games and Prepare for Excursion to New York.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—With the close of the regular baseball season in this city today, Boston enthusiasts began to mark time to the opening of the world's series between Boston and New York, champion teams of the American and National leagues, respectively. Successful applicants for tickets who have not called for the paste boards during the past two days lined up this morning at the box office to secure their tickets. It was expected that more than half the 15,000 reserved seats open to applicants will have been delivered and paid for when the club shuts up its ticket office for the day.

Those of the Boston fans who retain the name of "The Loyal Rooters" under which the Hubs World champion team was cheered and sung to victory against Pittsburgh eight years ago arranged for a special train to take them to the opening game at New York. There will be more than 300 in the party. Clubs and other committees and individuals also made their arrangements for train accommodations.

While all this is going on in Boston the Red Sox are playing the last game of the season in Philadelphia. Two days remain before the opening of the world's series in which the teams generally will prepare for the test to come.

Word was received from Philadelphia that both Gardner and Carrigan have recovered from their injuries and the physical condition of the other players is said to be good.

Both bridges are of the plate girder type, though the Fourth Avenue one is considerably the longer. The Racine Street bridge was completed early in the season. The one on Fourth Avenue was opened to traffic about a month ago.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.
One dared to die. In a swift moment's space
Fell in war's forefront laughter on his face.
Bronze tells his fame in many a market place.
Another dared to live. The long years through Felt his slow heart's blood ooze, like crimson dew;
For duty's sake, and smiled. And no one knew.—Hilton B. Greer.

The martyrs of old as well as the martyrs of modern times, who have sacrificed life for principle, are ever the subject of song and story, and the world turns aside to reverence their memories.
The spirit of patriotism, which prompted so many men to face death, and meet it bravely, during the dark days of civil strife, was the martyr spirit, and the sacrifice which these men paid, was a free-will offering to preserve the life of the nation.
The story is told of an old man who was noticed one morning planting a flower on an unknown grave in the national cemetery at Vicksburg. Someone said to him: "Is that the grave of your son?" and he said: "No, not my son, or not a relative. This little mound, as near as I can determine, marks the resting place of a young man who gave his life for me nearly fifty years ago." Then he told the experience.
"When the war broke out I wanted to enlist, but we were poor and my first duty called me to care for my wife and little children. In 1863 I was drafted, and with no money to hire a substitute was preparing to go, when my friend, the young man, whose body lies here, came to me and said: "Never mind, Joe, you stay home and take care of Mary and the babies, and I'll go for you." He went and never came back, and I have never been able until now to visit his grave." Then taking a little marker on which was inscribed, "He died for me," he placed it at the head of the grave and turned away.
The pages of history abound in instances of men and women who have sacrificed life for love of humanity, and these people are martyrs of the highest type.
Many people possess the notion that martyrdom is a peculiar attribute of the church, and that victims who have been burned at the stake, or persecuted to death in defense of their faith, are the world's great exemplars, but the fact remains that the same spirit which influenced and sustained them is abroad in the land today, and never more pronounced.
The genial atmosphere of Christianity has permeated all avenues, and the spirit of sacrifice, which is the essence of love, has invaded every domain of human endeavor. Only last week a cripple boy in a Chicago hospital submitted to an operation, and his crippled leg, which was afterwards amputated, was stripped of skin to save the life of a girl whom he only knew as a fellow sufferer in an adjoining ward.
The great scientist who discovered and developed the X-ray for the benefit of humanity, died in the prime of life as the result of experimental work, and instances are not rare where men and women have made the supreme sacrifice in the interests of science.
Down in one of the New England states an old man who had run a factory for forty years, discovered, a time ago, that he was unable to hold his own on account of combines and sharp competition. What to do he didn't know. Many of the one hundred men in his employ had been with him since boyhood. They owned their homes, in the little town, and the old man seemed to them like a father.
He could not see these men suffer and so continued to operate his mill at a loss. Finally the men discovered that the old man was worried, and a little investigation revealed the cause. They called a meeting to talk things over and appointed a committee to wait on the old gentleman.
He received them with a good deal of uneasiness, for he thought they might be dissatisfied and want more pay, but his astonishment and gratitude was complete when the chairman said to him: "We have come to help you out, for we realize that you are in trouble and so the boys voted last night that we would adopt an eleven hour schedule for nine hours' pay." That's the spirit which makes all men akin, and under its influence a common brotherhood becomes more than a title.

It requires heroism and fortitude to meet death, under certain conditions, while, under others, the call of the silent messenger comes as a welcome release.
A New York business man, who was rescued when the Titanic went down in mid-ocean last spring, said that after many of the women and children had been taken off, and the last life-boat had been launched, hundreds of men paced the deck, as the great ship steadily settled, realizing that their fate was sealed, yet there was no excitement.

When the upper deck was within a few feet of the water, he, with many others, jumped into the sea, and his life-preserver held him up until he lost consciousness in the icy water. When he came to himself he was lying in the bottom of a boat, rescued by one of the crews.

In telling the thrilling story he said: "I have thought many times since that I might better have gone down with the rest of that heroic company for my friends seem to shun me as a coward."

While fortitude and courage are required to meet death, both are often demanded to meet the problems of life heroically. You stand at the open grave of a friend and recall the memory of pleasant associations, and turn away with a sigh of regret. At your elbow is the wife and mother. She turns away from the open sepulchre and with tear-dimmed eyes tries to penetrate the gloom of the uncertain future, and in the darkness often wishes that she might rest by the side of her loved one in the Silent City.

There are homes in every community where the blighting hand of disease has rendered helpless for life some member of the family. It takes an heroic spirit to lie by the window shut in from all that child life holds so dear, and it requires some heroism on the part of the father and mother to maintain a cheerful spirit while ministering to the wants of the little sufferer.

In many homes, in some quiet corner is the old chair that is always occupied. Grandmother has had her day and the race is run. With faculties enfeebled but with mind alert she lives over the long years of active life, and patiently waits for release. Just a common, every-day grandmother, but sturdy of heart and heroic in spirit during the period of enforced idleness.

And so, all about us are men and women, boys and girls, who struggle under unequal burdens, without a whisper of complaint. The heroes are with us, often unnoticed, and with praises unsung. They should inspire us to a broader charity and a keener sense of appreciation, for we shall never travel this way but once, and when the voyage is ended it should be without regret.

AVALON

Avalon, Oct. 5.—Miss Leah Proctor of Janesville, was an over Sunday guest of Mrs. Lou Ulins.

Miss Mary Cooper of Clinton, is a guest at the C. S. Boynton home.

Mrs. E. C. Ransom has gone to Minnesota, to visit her aunt.

Miss Mayme Morgan has gone to Watertown, S. D., to care for her sister who is very ill.

Mrs. E. H. Ransom and daughter, Ethel and Beulah, Leah Proctor and Alta, Paul of Janesville, were guests of friends here Saturday and attended the shower for Miss Ethel Hulce.

Mrs. Wm. Reid, Mrs. John Waugh, and Mrs. Chas. Boynton, entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday, for Miss Ethel Hulce, of Richland, our popular instructor in music who is soon to be married to Mr. Fred Holden of Whitewater. Despite the inclement weather about sixty of her pupils and their mothers, responded to the invitations. After a pleasant afternoon refreshments were served and the guests departed wishing Miss Hulce many happy years of wedded life.

The many friends of Mrs. Wm. Weliver were surprised to hear of her sudden death Monday morning at her home, east of here. Although she has been ill for some time her death came as a shock to her neighbors and friends. Besides her husband she leaves one son and an aged mother, who lived with her. Funeral services were held from the home, conducted by Rev. Cory of Clinton, interment in the Clinton cemetery.

Miss Edna Timm of Clinton, was an over Sunday guest at the home of Mr. John Grams.

Miss Nellie Frost of this place was united in marriage to Ward Ryan of Milwaukee Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church in Janesville. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, relatives of the contracting parties being present. They will reside in Milwaukee.

While playing teeter-totter at school, Arnold Bobb fell and dislocated his arm at the elbow.

Mrs. Jessie Smith, daughter of Grand Forks, S. D., is home to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Smith.

The Simple Life.
He jumped off the train almost before it had come to a full stop and shook the cinders out of his hair and ears. He sniffed the town air joyously and shook hands warmly with the friend who had gone to the train to meet him.

"For the love of Mike where have you been?" asked the friend. "You look like the rag end of a misspent life. You look as frazzled as a collar that has been to the laundry nineteen times."

"I have been to a rest cure," he replied. "Doc told me where to find a quiet place and I fell for it like a ding-swizzled bone-head. I have rested so much in the last ten days that I'm about half dead, and believe me, Septimus, when I catch Doc alone some dark night the police are going to have another mysterious affair to clear up."

"I would hardly have known you," said the friend.

"I don't blame you. I was feeling pretty fair when Doc sent me away and I told him I thought he was making a great mistake, but he would have his own way. I got a little hall bedroom over the kitchen in one of them 'foxy health resorts, where all you have got to do is to eat boss feed and sit and look out of the window at the sparrows. I couldn't fish because it wasn't god for me. It was too cold to go in bathing. I couldn't read on account of my eyes and I couldn't play poker because there was nobody to play with but a Methodist preacher and four old ladies. I got quite well acquainted with them sparrows. We would do nothing all day but talk about the weather and study the almanac and at night we would sit and talk about the moon. The only excitement I had was one funeral which took place in the neighborhood and there wouldn't have been much excitement there if the soprano hadn't swallowed her gum right at the critical moment."

"I was alone with myself so much that I had time to think over my past life and get to darning into the future. Finally when I got to talking to myself and counting the ants in the sugar bowl I made up my mind to fly back to town, and here I am."

"The simple life has got me down, but not out. I am going to get to work again and recuperate and when I get the strength back that I have lost at the rest cure I'm going to go up and have a session with Doc that he will remember for several moons. S'long; I'll see you after I go home and bury these clothes in the back yard. Get the boys together tonight."

A Gilt Edge Recommendation.
An attenuated and willowy Swedish maiden was once connected with the household in the capacity of domestic. Her work was not satisfactory, and she received her notice. Before leaving she approached the head of the house and said:

"Ay tank if I had a recommendation from you I could get a good job somewhere, maybe."

This was a poser, but after thinking the matter over for a few minutes the man with a cheerful desire to oblige sat down at his desk and wrote the following:

"To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that Miss Tillie Svenson has been engaged to my household as domestic for six months. I can truthfully say that she is the tallest hired girl we have ever had."

The Baby.
The sweetest little darling that the world has ever seen; Of tranquil disposition with no yearning to be mean. Its face shows great intelligence and beauty that is rare; The cutest little infant in the country, anywhere. Its voice shows splendid quality. It's music to the ear. And when it has the colic, it's a symphony to hear. It has got a brilliant future, there is not a doubt of it. And there's not a thing to wish for to improve the kid a bit— If it is yours.

"If you want to get cured, go and see my doctor. He's the best in this town."

"I ain't had a bit of trouble with this car since I bought it, seven years ago. Yes, I'll sell it—at a bargain, too."

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

RETURNED VERDICT IN BERGSTERMAN INQUEST

CORONER'S JURY HOLD BERGER AND MEYER ON MURDER CHARGE.

DEATH DUE TO ATTACK

Criminal Attack Made by Harry Berger and Edward Meyer Given As Cause of Death—Confessions Read as Testimony.

That the death of Matilda Bergsterman on the night of Monday, September 30, was the result of a criminal attack made on her by Harry Berger and Edward Meyer, was the verdict of the coroner's jury this morning given in Justice Tallman's court at the conclusion of the inquest. The verdict of the jury was as follows:

"An inquisition taken at the City of Janesville, County of Rock, on the 5th day of October, 1912, before Stanley D. Tallman, one of the justices of the peace of the said county, upon the view of the body of the said Matilda Bergsterman, there dead, by the jurors whose names are hereunto subscribed, who being duly sworn to inquire on behalf of the State when and in what manner and by what means the said Matilda Bergsterman came to her death, upon their oaths do say:

That the said Matilda Bergsterman came to her death on the night of September 30th as the result of a criminal assault on her, the said Matilda Bergsterman, by Harry Berger and Edward Meyer, the said assault being committed on the night of September 30th, 1912.

In testimony whereof the said justice of the peace and jurors of this inquisition have hereunto set their hand and seal the day and year aforesaid.

Justice of the peace

Two witnesses were summoned to testify before the coroner's jury this morning, Francis C. Grant, court reporter, who took the statements made by Ed. Meyer and Harry Berger in shorthand notes and Dr. J. W. Gibson. As to the statements, Mr. Grant testified that he had read the shorthand notes to Meyer and Berger and that the young men had signed them. Dr. Gibson's testimony was regarding his opinion as to the cause of Miss Bergsterman's death, which he stated was the same as given in the inquest before that Miss Bergsterman met death by exhaustion or exposure following exhaustion. He said that in his opinion exhaustion was brought on by a struggle in which she was fighting against the man or men who made a criminal attack on her, and that the wound would have been impossible had the attack been made with her consent.

The statements of Berger and Meyer, read by Mr. Grant at the inquest this morning, in part, they are as follows:

(From Berger's statement.)
Dist. Atty.: "When did you see Bergsterman Monday night?"
A: "About eleven o'clock."
Q: "Whereabouts was it?" A: "On the corner of South Academy and Milwaukee Sts."
Chief Appleby: "By Ryan's saloon?"
A: "Yes, sir."
Dist. Atty.: "What did you say to him, and what did he say to you?"
A: "We went a ways with him, and he asked us which way we were going. We told him we were going to town. We asked him if he wanted to go home. He said, yes. We took him home and put him in the house."
Q: "Was there any light in the house when you got there?" A: "No, there was no light in the house."
Q: "Anybody in the house?" A: "The girl was in there."
Q: "You mean Tilly by the girl?" A: "Yes, sir."
Q: "Whereabouts was she in the house?" A: "She was in the dining room. I think they call it."
Q: "When you took Fritz in what did you do with him?" A: "Laid him on the couch."
Q: "Could he walk at all or did you have to carry him home?" A: "Well, he walked a little. We put him on the couch."
Q: "Did you say anything to Tilly?" A: "No, I didn't say anything to her."
Q: "Who spoke to her?" A: "Meyer."
Q: "What did he say to her?" A: "I don't know what he said to her."
Q: "What is the character of his words, if you don't know his exact words?" Chief Appleby: "Come out or anything like that?" A: "Tilly." Chief: "Yes." A: "He asked her to go out." Q: "What did she say to that?" A: "I don't remember what she said."

In the statement Berger stated further in answer to question put by the district attorney, that Meyer had gone out with Miss Bergsterman to the west side of the house, and he had followed them out. He told of the attacks made on her, maintaining, however, that it was with her consent. Afterwards, he said, "she was like a dish rag, she was dead, and we spoke to her and she didn't say anything, and we listened to see whether she was dead or not." Meyer, according to the statement, put his head down to the girl's side, but could not hear her heart beating, so they picked the girl up and laid her on the couch in the kitchen, putting her father on a chair. Bergsterman laughed when they told him Tilly was dead, and according to Meyer, said, "Oh, Tilly! Oh, Tilly!"

The statements of the two young men are practically the same except that Berger in his statement said that Bergsterman did not touch the girl's body after the young men brought it in and laid it on the couch while Meyer stated that Bergsterman "got laughing and wearing around there and hitting her, and then we went out."

stated that Meyer had hit a light when they left the house, but Meyer in his statement said that they did not leave a light burning in the house. Both testified that they had been acquainted with her, and had known who she was only by having seen her at the house when they passed there. They said they had talked the matter over as they left the Bergsterman home, and had decided to keep "mum" about the affair.

The charges against Meyer and Berger, on which they are being held, are of murder in the first degree. Thomas S. Nolan was this afternoon retained by the parents of the two young men to defend them in the court proceedings.

Mrs. Fred Van Kirk of Portland, Ore., is the guest of Mrs. W. T. Van Kirk, Milton avenue.

An operation was performed yesterday on George Winslow for blood poisoning in the hand. He is recovering as well as can be expected.

Mrs. George E. Holmes and niece, Miss Clara Cook of Ravenswood, Chicago, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gaffey on Franklin street.

C. A. Gault of Beloit was a Janesville visitor today. He has just returned from California, where he has been to see William B. Strong formerly of Beloit at one time president of the State bar.

William Heise leaves tomorrow on his annual fishing expedition at Lake Hong Kong.

Prof. and Mrs. E. L. Roethe are spending Sunday with friends in Edgerton.

Miss Nellie Atkinson went to Beloit today to spend Sunday with friends there.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MASS MEETING CALLED.

A mass meeting of all the girls and young women of the city, eighteen years of age and over, is called for tomorrow, Sunday, afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at Library hall. The purpose of the meeting is to form an Auxiliary to the Political Equality League of Rock County under whose auspices this meeting will be held. The cause of Woman's Suffrage will be presented by Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, police officer of Los Angeles. All who are interested in bettering the moral conditions of the community are urged to be present. A special invitation is extended to the young women of Janesville who are employed in shops and factories.

September 6, 1912.
To Whom It May Concern:

Two years or more ago the Police Department of this city found it expedient to employ the services of a woman police officer. The appointment was given to Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells. At the time this was viewed as an experiment. It turned out to be an undisputed success, the work of a policewoman being entirely satisfactory from every viewpoint.

The position now is regulated by civil service, and other women have been added to that branch of police work. Their services add considerably to the efficiency of the department in general, so much so that it would be a hardship to dispense with their employment.

It is the intention to add other women to this arm of the police service as the growth of the city demands.

Respectfully,
C. E. SEBASTIAN,
Chief of Police,
Los Angeles, Calif.

MARRIED IN ROCKFORD A WEEK AGO YESTERDAY.

Miss Edith C. Woodman of La Prairie becomes Bride of Will Eddy of Shopiere.

Announcement of the wedding of Miss Edith C. Woodman of La Prairie to Will Eddy of Shopiere has been received by Janesville friends of the young couple. The ceremony was performed in Rockford on September 28. Mr. and Mrs. Eddy will reside on the groom's farm east of Shopiere.

ATTENDED DISTRICT REBEKAH CONVENTION

Seventy Janesville Ladies, Members of Lodges 171 and 26 Entertained At Monroe.

Members of Janesville Rebekah lodges 171 and 26 to the number of seventy have returned from Monroe where they attended the convention of the lodges in District No. 23, on October 2. All spoke highly of the hospitality extended them by the members of the local lodges and the manner in which the programs of the conference were carried out. A reception committee met them at the railway station and had automobiles waiting to convey them to Old Fellows Hall where they were served a fine dinner, followed by a business session. Six of the nine lodges in the district were represented. District President Elizabeth Crumb of Milton Junction presented and State President Ruth Logemann was an honored guest.

Vesta Lodge No. 182 of Monroe tendered the visitors a banquet at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. This was followed by a short business session and an entertainment, the most appreciated numbers in which were songs by a Swiss quartette garbed in native costume.

Marriage License: Frederick M. Evenson and Iva Huber, both of the town of Bradford secured a marriage license at the county clerk's office this morning.

LONG TIME RESIDENT OF JANESVILLE DEAD

Mrs. Gertrude Olson Dies As Result of Shock Caused by Death of Her Husband

Mrs. Gertrude Sophia Olson, for thirty-eight years a resident of Janesville, died at her home, 1120 West Bluff Street at 7:45 o'clock last evening at the age of seventy-five years. Although Mrs. Olson has been in poor health for many years, her death is attributed to the shock caused by the death of her husband, Paul Olson who took his own life six weeks ago. Mrs. Olson was born in Sanover, Norway, April 1, 1837. She married before emigrating to this country with her husband forty-two years ago. For four years they lived on a farm near Edgerton and then came to make their home in this city. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. W. B. Elithorpe of Morrisville, New York, and the Misses Laura, Clara, and Pauline Olson of Janesville. All were with her at the time of her death. One brother, Hans Gunness, lives in Janesville, a sister, Mrs. Lena Johnson, in Chicago, and another sister in Norway. Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. E. O. Hoffmeister, pastor of St. Peter's English Lutheran church.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT COMING OCT. 12.

Christ Church Guilds have established the reputation of giving nothing but high grade entertainments. The Best Concert Company will enhance that reputation. The course consists of three companies, three artists in each company, traveling three weeks apart. Last year's tour extended from Chicago through large cities south, giving 400 concerts.

The young people in these companies are exceedingly attractive and take first rank in their different specialties. Among which the songs of all nations, the Jewel songs from Faust, illustrated in beautiful costumes, are gems of art. Adv.

Baptist church Sunday night.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Returns From Council: The Rev. Father Henry Willman returned this morning from Milwaukee where he attended the Diocesan Council of the Episcopal church. He was elected a delegate to the Sunday school conference of the fifth department to be held next January. The next date and place of meeting have not been determined.

Moose to Rockford: About forty members of the Janesville Lodge, Local Order of Moose are expected to go to Rockford on the twelve o'clock interurban car tomorrow to attend the initiation of a class of forty members in that city. The degree work will be done by a crack team from Freeport.

Work Being Rushed: Good weather is making possible rapid progress on the macadamizing of Washington street. Superintendent George Croft has a force of fifteen men at work, eight teams hauling in crushed stone, and three teams on the grader. The crushed stone is coming in as fast as it can be handled. It is hoped to have the east side of the street from Mineral Point avenue to the Carle grocery open for travel by a week from next Saturday.

D. of L. Meeting: A meeting of the Daughters of Isabella will be held Monday evening, Oct. 7, in Knights of Columbus hall.

Look for Stolen Auto: Janesville police headquarters received a telephone message last night notifying them of the theft of an automobile in Milwaukee and giving a description of the missing machine which it is thought may turn up in this vicinity. The automobile is a five passenger Overland car with dark blue body and gray wheels and trunk in the rear. The initials L. U. are on the radiator and doors. The license number is 1562 and car number 52,650.

EEOIT SORORITY HOLDS BANQUET AT MYERS HOTEL.

Sixteen members of the Delta Psi Delta sorority of Beloit college enjoyed a supper at the Myers Hotel last evening. The young ladies present were: Misses Gertrude D. Taylor, Florence M. Armin, Etta B. Lerth, Henrietta Renwick, Irma O. Flexer, Myrtle Holmstrom, Laura Tracy, Hazel Paige, Alice Irene Lowrey, Helen Kelley, Estelle Cooper, Marie Radcliffe, M. Ethel Place, Grace Taylor, Mildred Sutherland and Iva Reid.

CLINTON

Clinton, Oct. 5.—William Duthie of Avalon was visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Dalton Thursday.

Mrs. Eva K. Tuttle of Beloit was here yesterday calling on her numerous friends and old neighbors.

Mrs. James Kelley of Beloit, formerly of Clinton was here on business yesterday.

Mrs. F. W. Herron entertained a number of friends at a luncheon yesterday which was a very enjoyable affair.

Albert Rader of Capron came in yesterday to visit his grandfather and grandmother Isam and his sister, but before they leave for California. Albert is a partner in a moving picture show at Capron and is doing nicely.

The high school party in the assembly room at the school building, given last evening by Prof. and Mrs. Puffer, the teachers, to the pupils of the high school, was the most enjoyable school affair ever given here and the students are loud in their praises of their host and hostess.

Work has finally started on the gutter on the lower east side of Main street. The street has been obstructed so long that considerable complaint and criticism has been expressed.

Work on the interlocking plant and switching tower and plant is nearly completed. The electric signal work is not so far along and the new water tank work has been stopped for the present.

Mrs. I. L. Cory will leave next Tuesday for Minneapolis to visit her sister. She expects to be absent most of the winter.

SACRED CONCERT

JAILED FOR CARRYING A CONCEALED WEAPON

Edward Williams Also Open to Prosecution on Charges of Theft and Being Intoxicated.

Although open to prosecution on three different charges, the theft of a hat, carrying concealed weapons, and being found intoxicated, Edward Williams, placed under arrest yesterday afternoon was arraigned on but one of them in the municipal court this morning, that of having a revolver. Williams pleaded guilty to this offense and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs, taxed at $3, or be sentenced to fifteen days imprisonment in the county jail. He took the jail sentence. Williams told the Judge that he bought the weapon in this city yesterday from a cobbler who had repaired his shoes. He did not know why he bought it as he had never been in the habit of carrying one.

The theft charge against Williams, not entered in formal complaint, was that of stealing a five dollar hat at the Ziegler clothing store. Yesterday noon he walked into the store and after buying a suit of underwear asked to be shown some hats. Different kinds were shown him but he desired to see some of the best grade. While the salesman went to get them he shoved a five dollar hat into his overalls. The theft was not discovered until after he had left the store. Only two customers had been in during the noon hour and the suspicion rested on Williams who had already been locked up for drunkenness by the time he was searched.

Martin Hovelund, a Stoughton man, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was let off with a fine of $2 and costs on his promise to go home his possession. Hovelund, who has a corks leg, was found lying near the cotton mill where he was in danger from the switch-engine. Chris. Olson, a former offender paid a fine of $4 and costs.

JANESVILLE COUPLE WED IN MILWAUKEE

Miss Bertha Allen and Erol Winters Married at All Saints Cathedral on Thursday

Miss Bertha Allen, daughter of Mrs. Mary Allen, and Erol Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Winters, both of this city, were married at All Saints' Cathedral, Milwaukee, Thursday by the Rev. Father Henry Willmann, rector of Trinity church.

They were attended by Miss Marie S. Russell of Milwaukee and Miss Helen Glenn of Columbus, Ohio. The bride was for some time stenographer in the office of Attorney William Ruger, and the groom is in the employ of the Janesville Pure Milk Company. Mr. and Mrs. Winters will return to this city after a brief honeymoon.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR THE OPENING CONCERT

The Apollo club recital which will be given October 14th at Library hall, in keeping with the former custom, be an especially attractive number. It will consist of the great Russian violinist, Alexander Zukowski, and Miss Letitia Galahar, mezzo-soprano, and also Miss Marie Florio, pianist. These artists are all exceedingly well known in the musical world in their particular class of work. The outlook for the Apollo club recitals this year is particularly favorable. Undoubtedly the finest series of recitals will be given this year, taken as a whole, that the club has ever had. Already a large number of memberships have been issued. New members who have not already made application should do so without delay for as soon as the quota is filled, no additional memberships will be issued.

FORMER JANESVILLE GIRL IS WEDDED AT DIXON, ILL.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Platten of this city have received news from Dixon, Ill., that their daughter,

D. W. WATT Tells of Circus Side Lights in the Eighties

In this week's tales from the "White Tops," Mr. Watt dwells upon two side issues which perhaps are not exactly relevant to the subject of circuses as a whole, but which tell a tale all their own of the morbid curiosity of the general public. Mr. Watt was in St. Joseph, Mo., shortly after the death of the notorious Jesse James and writes, not from hearsay evidence, but from actual experience.

In eighteen and eighty the show opened in Washington, D. C. for three days and after making all the principal cities in the east started west and along early in September showed in St. Joseph, Missouri. We arrived in St. Joe early Sunday morning and showed there on Sunday. All the people in those days were put at hotels and all our show people were quartered at a large hotel built in the suburbs of St. Joseph, a high class family hotel.

On Thursday morning, which was only three days before we arrived there, the notorious Jesse James had been killed by one of his famous band by the name of Robert Ford. There were two of the Ford brothers, Robert and Charlie. They had been members of the Jesse James band of outlaws for some years and for some time the governor of Missouri had offered a reward of $10,000 for the capture dead or alive, of Jesse James. The Ford brothers, although they had been partners in many of their supposed bank robberies in many different states, the $10,000 offered by the government of Missouri had seemed to tempt them for a long time. On this Thursday morning in the Jesse James home in St. Joe, Mo., while Jesse James was standing on an old wooden chair hanging a picture on the wall, Robert Ford shot him from behind and it was always supposed that the two brothers received the reward for their treachery to one who had always befriended them.

The home of Jesse James was a small, one-story house standing on a hill about 30 rods northwest of the World's Hotel. There were a sized living room, 3 bedrooms and a so as a dining room and a wood shed that constituted the entire house. A little to the north stood a one-story barn in which Jesse James kept two thoroughbred saddle horses, which were never without their saddles on them at night. This they claimed was done in case of emergency so that he could make a quick escape.

A widow woman owned the property and the James' had lived there about a year under an assumed name. I have forgotten the name they went under at that time, but the man who had charge of the billiard room in the billiards hall said that nearly every morning about 8:30 he would come down there and play billiards with him till noon. The landlord of the hotel said that they often talked it over and wondered what his business was, as he always seemed to have plenty of money.

As soon as the news spread that the noted bandit had been killed, the old lady owning the property came and took charge of it, put guards outside the fence and charged an admission of 25 cents to see the room in which he was killed and the surroundings. The Sunday that we were there it was said that upwards to 5,000 people paid admission to see the place. For miles around people drove there in all kinds of vehicles to take a look at the home of Jesse James.

His father was a Baptist minister and early in the Civil war he joined the rebel forces and afterwards joined Quintrell's famous band of guerrillas. It has always been said that the Ford brothers who killed him had little good out of the $10,000 reward which they received, for it was not many years later that Charles was killed out in the far west and Robert the brother who shot James took his own life not so many years after.

Frank James the brother of Jesse and who was with him through all his desperate work, later went to Nevada, Mo. There he went to work in a grocery store and two years after we showed in Nevada and Frank and his wife came to the show in the afternoon. We had a newspaper man with the show by the name of Young who was a bright, smart writer but occasionally would imbibe too freely. This was the case in Nevada and after he had quite a visit with Frank James and his wife at the show in the afternoon he went down to their house in the evening with foolscap paper enough under his arm to write a history of the world and half a dozen pencils sharpened on both ends and insisted on Frank James telling him his life's career in full. Frank James was nice to him, but sent word up to the show for someone to come down and look after him. Young was sent for and taken to the hotel.

Frank James was a small man with a kindly face, a very pleasant man to know and the last one that you would pick out to be such a desperate character.

A few years later the notorious Bunk Allen, who died last week in Chicago and of whom the Inter-Ocean had so much in last Sunday's issue of the paper, started a circus on the road and Frank James and Cole Younger, another one of the famous band were taken with the show as the drawing card. The contract called for equal dividends of all proceeds among the four, the two partners and Jesse James and Cole Younger. It was not long before James and Younger knew that they were not getting what belonged to them and at the time the Luella Forepaugh Fish show was sojourning Bunk Allen came on to buy some property and at the same time his partner went ahead with the show. Both the partners being gone, Frank James and Cole Younger went out to the ticket wagon and told the ticket agent to open up the safe. This he did and they took $13,700 out of the safe and both left for Missouri and quit the show business for good. And they both claimed that this amount did not any more than give them what rightfully belonged to them. It is fair to say that they did not ask for any further settlement.

This man Allen had been known for more than 30 years by the name of Bunk Allen, but these names were both like the man, they were counterfeit. His name was neither, Bunk nor was it Allen. He was raised on a farm near Delavan only 16 miles from here and before he was out of his teens, left the farm and went direct to Chicago. Shortly after his arrival in Chicago he went into the saloon business and made money from the start. He was a fine looking man standing 6 feet 2 inches and weighing over 200. Last week he died leaving a widow with a large fortune which was tainted with everything that was vile and but few friends who had a good word for him.

A Recruit's Letter After His First Experience In Battle

A breezy letter, giving a soldier's views of military life after he had been in the service but a short time, and just after his first experiences in battle, was published in the Janesville Daily Gazette of August 7, 1861. The letter written to the Gazette was from George F. Saunders, one of the first of the Janesville men to enlist when the call to arms came at the outbreak of the war. Mr. Saunders' letter was written from Camp Corcoran, near Washington, where some of the early Wisconsin regiments were sent to join the Army of the Potomac. That the soldiers were unaccustomed to military life, as well as other interesting facts, may be gleaned from the letter, which is published below:

Camp Corcoran, July 29th, '61.
Friend Sargent and No. 2 Boys:—I received your letter in due time, and having a little spare time, I thought I would answer it. We are all pretty well, nothing to boast of, but hope you are all sound, wind and limb. Henry, we have had some pretty hard fighting since we left Janesville. The boys as a general thing did well; if the officers had done as well as the men, we could have told a different story. It was pretty tough to see horses and riders, artillery and infantry, literally mown down like grass. After the first fire I thought of nothing but going in on my nerve; but I will leave the boys to decide that. I am satisfied that I got both interest and principal on that old secesh debt of mine, and balanced accounts on the old plan of fare and wet. I could compare the battle to nothing but one continual storm of hail. When over you would cast your eye, you could see the mutilated body of a soldier. The Zouaves would cut and carve as unconcerned as if they were at a Thanksgiving dinner. In a charge, one of the Zouaves stuck his bayonet into the body of a secesher, nearly splitting him in two. I merely speak of this as showing the style of these red-cap gents. The enemy have a little antipathy against them for some reason or other, which is better known among themselves; however, they always meet with a warm reception. The Zouaves are the most efficient troops the United States can boast of. This, my friends of the Janesville Fire Zouaves, you may think is touching your case. I mean it shall, for I know there are just as good men in Janesville as ever came from New York; all you want is a little warming up. Aside from the boys, the Janesville folk are my best hold, as Brother Blood says.

This is hardly the place to be collected, as one moment there will be rations wanted, guard to mount, soap to get for one of the boys; who, after wearing his shirt six weeks, is foolish enough to think it would do good to give it a soaking. I just had to drop my pencil to get and see a fight between a couple of Company F's boys. They finally agreed to call it a draw game, take dinner, and go in again after dinner. Another fuss just now: a pot of bran soup upset; nobody did it—at least, they all say so—and so it goes from morning until night. My friends, pencil cannot portray the beauties of camp life. I am sitting by the side of a boy who reported himself sick this morning.

You ought to see his operative machinery—masticate rations, which are preferred to castor oil and jalap.

I almost forgot to give you Lieut. McLean's compliments. He came off a hard guard this morning. The enemy are sneaking around; sentinels are being picked off pretty fast, so that we cannot tell at night who will draw our rations in the morning. You ought to see an alarm in camp—say about midnight. "Such a getting up stairs you never did see." We live in a constant state of excitement, which serves to drive away the blues. We often look down at the capital and its inhabitants, and think they can have no sport shut up in the city, while we are allowed the privilege. If you can call it no, or walking almost any place in a half mile of camp. We would like to go over to Washington and speak a word of consolation to the citizens, but that has played out. None but the good Lord and General Scott know where we will be sent next. I think we will stay here for a short time to recruit.

The Janesville mail has just arrived. Right there over that dry goods box you will see the boys pulling and hauling to get their letters. We just happened to have a shower of rain, thought I would look around to see if I could hear any news; missed a man in the rain storm, thought I would look over the quartermaster's old quarters to see if I could find him; saw a couple of barrels move a little; then gave the barrels a smart kick and out rolls the lost boy. I marched him up to the tent called the "oombs," and left him to meditate on the next improvement. I write five minutes, then have to jump up and run for something; and so it goes. I had to swear off just now; one of the boys tipped over the boards on which I was writing on. He appeared to be satisfied, and walked on, so there was no chance for an argument. My compliments to John, my son, also the rest of my family. Write soon, and give me all the particulars, as a letter from Janesville is received with much pleasure.

Yours truly,
GEO. F. SAUNDERS.

OBITUARY.

Jeff Clyde.

Mr. Jeff Clyde, a well known resident of Beloit died at his home on Friday. The deceased at one time made his home in Janesville, where he lived until up to about five years ago when he moved to Beloit, where he has since made his home. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn his loss. A host of friends here in this city sympathize with his family in their bereavement. The funeral will be held from the home in Beloit on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 6th.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

JOHN WEAVER DIES AT ADVANCED AGE

Funeral Services Held Today For Evansville's Oldest Citizen Who Was Born in 1821.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Oct. 5.—John Weaver was born in Monroe county, Pennsylvania, February 20, 1821, and died here October 3, at about two o'clock in the morning. On December 21, 1846 he was united in marriage to Miss Sophie Butts at Hamilton, Pa. Four children were born to this union, two of whom, Amos and Jonathan of this city, with one brother Jonathan Weaver, Sr., survive him.

In his childhood he became a member of the Lutheran church and was brought up in that faith.

He came to Wisconsin with his family in the early fifties, making his home at Butts Corners, until 1854 when they moved to a farm several miles west of Evansville.

Seventeen years ago he came to this city to spend the declining years of his life. His health has gradually failed for the last ten years. Mr. Weaver was Evansville's oldest citizen, being ninety-one years and eight months at the time of his death.

The funeral was held this afternoon at two o'clock at the home of his son, Amos Weaver. Interment was made in Maple Hill cemetery.

AT THIRTY CENTS TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Elgin, Ill., Sept. 30.—Butter firm at 30 cents.

FRESH TOKAY GRAPES ARE FEATURE OF FRUIT MARKET.

Fresh Tokay grapes are the feature of today's fruit market, these are the finest to be found on the local market this season and they are very abundant. They are selling at 55 cents a basket. The Jonathan apples which came on the market sometime ago are still very good and they are selling very fast. They are retailing at 6 cents a pound. Fresh cucumbers which have been of such an excellent quality this year are getting to be much better and there is a heavy demand for them. They sell for 30 cents a dozen. Michigan peaches which have been the favorites for the past month on the fruit market are still very fine but they are not as plentiful. They are bringing 40 cents a basket. Watermelons are getting to be very scarce and the next few days will see the last of them. They are selling for 15 and 25 cents each. Of the vegetables the Hubbard squash are still very fine and there is a large demand for them. They are selling at 20 cents each.

Fortunes In Faces.
There's often much truth in the saying "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them. 25c at People's Drug Co.

The Human Body Is "Fearfully and Wonderfully Made."

Confidence is an important requisite of success; and we are all striving for success.

Health is a prime factor of confidence; doubters are sure to be dyspeptic.

Ideas are changing in methods of healing as well as along other lines; don't hold to old theories simply because you are accustomed to them.

Read what this new system has to say for itself; it may be more reasonable than you think.

Old notions are going; "time makes ancient good uncouth; we must up and still and onward, who would keep abreast of truth."

Persist in finding out the degree of benefit being derived from Chiropractic by your very neighbors; it may surprise you.

Resolve to try it for yourself; this 20th century, method of regaining your health.

Anxiety of every sort, today harasses the souls of men; only those possessing vigorous health can long endure the strain.

Courage then—consult the skilled Chiropractor who can detect subluxations of your vertebrae (segments of spine) and place them right again.

Truth makes way slowly; this truth is in harmony with Nature.

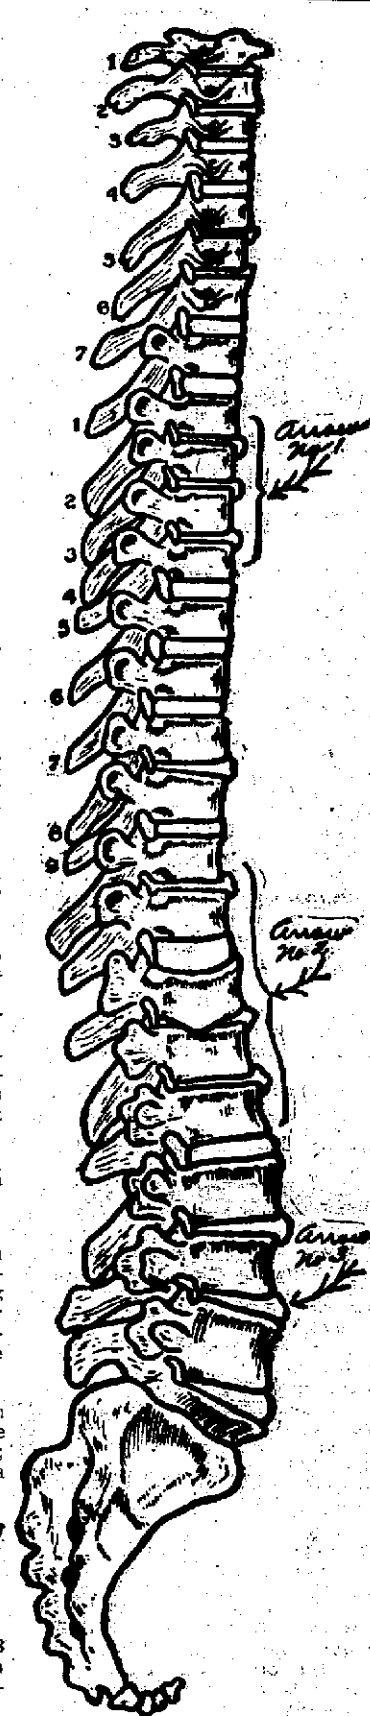

Instead of taking drugs of which you know little, or submitting to operations which result in your knowing less; give this simple method a fair trial; don't expect instantaneous results; wonder workers don't operate this side of Egypt!

Come with your doubts; and come with your prejudice if you cannot come without them; action means life; Chiropractic means health! (By a Patient.)

WEEKLY LETTER FROM ELLIS B. USHER ON MANY TIMELY TOPICS

Gossip Picked Up in Milwaukee That Proves Most Interesting Reading.

(By Ellis B. Usher.)
Milwaukee, October 5.—Stromboli and Gov. McGovern have both been in eruption, since my last letter was written, and nobody knows exactly the motive forces in either case. They both smell a little of sulphur and suggest a Machiavellian touch that we are becoming accustomed to. We have now three divisions of Republican Progressives, Democratic camps of La Follette and anti-La Follette Progressives, Socialist Progressives and Prohibition Progressives. At present, the two last named seem to have all the rest of party organization or party principles. It is possible to know what their creeds are. The rest of it is a Babel of tongues. Mr. Bryan, sixteen years ago, started the era of personal politics. Today, in both the old parties there are left only an array of individual shouters, each standing before his own side-show, barking "This way for the greatest shown on earth! All the living curiosities and platform contentions are right in this tent! I am captain of the bunch, I am IT!" etc. So far as platforms are concerned all the rest are cheap imitations of the socialistic propaganda and a whole lot of the people in this state will, if this thing keeps on, do just what was done locally in Milwaukee, vote the Socialist ticket and take it straight. There will be less hypocrisy about it, and one can at least know he is somewhere.

The automobile races got a fine start on Tuesday. Bruce Brown, twice winner of the Grand Prix, was going almost 80 miles an hour, on a trial spin, when a tire exploded, he was killed and his mechanic has since been hovering between life and death. It was inevitable just as aviation and death are surely companions. But it served the purpose. A good crowd was out on Wednesday and they packed the observation points of all the most dangerous places in the course, so they should miss no detail of the horrors if any other fatal accidents should occur. Bruce Brown was one of the wealthy devotees of this new method of human sacrifice. And they tell us we are more civilized than in the days when the Aztec gods had to be fed with human sacrifices. So far as the crowd of strangers is concerned, the hot and muggy weather around the hotels. It may be that they came in automobiles from neighboring summer resorts, but they have left the hotels in the city quite alone.

Along with the other peculiarities of the season it is very evident that business, generally, is quite indifferent to politics, and goes on its way quite untroubled. This is, probably, but partially true, however. The business and finances of the country were never more healthy, because crops are good and the demand is steady. But the shooting is going on. Whether it is the "money trust" or the conservative tamper of commercial sentiment, speculation in stocks is choked down as soon as it starts, by a rise in the rates on call money. The broad tone of business has not materially altered on the prospects of a big crop movement, because all realize that the railroads are going to be driven to handle it, they have so little money for new equipments and trackage, both of which are sorely needed. The improvement in steel is a reflex of the imperative railroad demand, but in most all the big lines prices are being kept down.

Telephone Advertisement.
The idea of business being undisturbed by politics has its best local indorsements in some facts I ran on to this week in talking with General Manager H. O. Seymour, of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., but, under the new law I cannot talk about a client, without infracting the law in spirit, at least, without marking it "advertisement." So I am going to pay for this paragraph. Mr. Seymour was commenting upon the fact, as novel as any in the experience of this state, that this year the increase in the number of subscribers is not only greater than ever before, but it is the first time a presidential year has not shown an actual falling off. The rule has been a steady increase, year by year, for three years, until a presidential year, when it would drop below the first year. Beginning with 1909 the yearly increase has been about 2000 subscribers above the year preceding. Last year the total increase was over 11,000. The first of this month, with three months of the year left, the increase showed about 13,000, and it bids fair to break all records, for it is running about 1,000 a month. The Wisconsin Telephone Co. pays for the publication of such news as this for two reasons, first that it is of value to its patrons to know that the service grows steadily more useful, and second that it is an incentive to others to avail themselves of this widely expanding local service, especially as it is a part of the nation wide Bell System. I regard such information as one of the broadest importance to the growth of Wisconsin. Nothing touches the telephone today as a purveyor of the universal wants of the public.

A Railroad Advertisement.
In line with the above opinion of the railroad situation, an article following along with the annual reports of the St. Paul and the Chicago and Northwestern roads, comes the annual report of the Erie, an eastern line. It earned, net, less than 1% on its common stock as against 2.52% of the previous year. The gross earnings of the road were only $157,539 less than the year before, but the gross expense was $2,262,957 greater than the previous year. Of this sum an increase in taxes of $426,946 is one big item. Another is the cost of money to finance improvements. A item of discount on securities sold of $470,698 tells a part of this story, and a paragraph from President Underwood's report tells more. He says additions and betterments to the property and equipment of the company aggregated $5,495,000, and adds:
"Owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the bond market your board has considered it advisable to authorize the sale of bonds which were issued during the year to reimburse the treasury for construction expenditures. These bonds are pledged under a collateral indenture dated April 1, 1912, securing the payment of $10,000,000 three-year 5% collateral gold notes, all of which are sold."

This proves what I have said as to the advantages of selling notes bearing a high rate of interest as against paying a large brokerage for the sale of low interest bearing long time bonds. I have it, from the local bond sellers, that the demand for railroad bonds is very slack. This may be, in part, owing to the election, and in part owing to the tendencies to interfere constantly with railroads by legislation, affects the sale of long time obligations, as it would not effect short notes. The difficulties in the way of railroad financing unquestionably are a serious bar to general business revival. The American people cannot load the mule so they break his back and expect him to move the load. You wouldn't think that was profitable advertising for the Erie, would you. Well, it isn't except as it shows that in spite of the handicaps it is pushing improvements. But the law will be violated if it is not paid for because the Erie is my client, and the use of its name may be construed to be of some benefit.

I have recently read with a good deal of interest, a book just published by McClurg on "The Oregon System." It throws some new side lights upon the results of the initiative and referendum in the state that prides itself upon leading even Wisconsin, in the progressive procession. It appears that the people are finding that a legislature with the recall hanging over its head is safer to these measures of importance to the people than to take the responsibility with the result that the people begin to think such a dummy legislature a useless expense. The writer says:

"Unless the people and their representatives resolve to work together, the time is not far off when there will be a new issue in Oregon and that issue will be the abolition of the legislature. Indeed such a proposal has been seriously made by some of the Oregon press and it would undoubtedly receive an astonishing support."

Among the causes for this condition the writer says: "The people do not take enough interest in the primaries, but rely too much on the law, and too little upon vigilance," and the feeling that "we'll have the initiative and referendum if the legislature don't give us what we want." Oregon seems to be progressing a little faster but along the same lines we are, toward no government at all. The office of Lieutenant General of the United States army was created to do honor to George Washington. The title has been held by Gen. Scott, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Schofield, Miles and Arthur MacArthur, who were in the civil war a lieutenant from Milwaukee, and commanded a regiment before he was 21. It was fitting that this good American citizen should spend his last days in his boyhood's home and finally breathe his last among his old comrades of the civil war. Gen. MacArthur was not of the self-advertising, flamboyant type of man with which we are so well supplied today. When the governor insisted upon making him adjutant on the 24th, the colonel protested and the men jeered. The young officer was so modest and boyish that he was almost a failure on parade, but once in action he quickly proved that real heroes need no press agents. I can remember how, as a small boy, my heart glowed with pride and enthusiasm as I read of the exploits of "the boy colonel." When the Civil war closed he stepped down from a colonel's title and entered the regular army at a lower grade than he entered the volunteer army, that of second lieutenant, the lowest rank in the line. He made a record as commander-in-chief in the Philippines, when Taft was civil governor. He and Taft clashed, and later when Taft was secretary of war under the new organization of the army, Gen. MacArthur was forced into retirement. Only his most intimate friends ever heard Gen. MacArthur speak of this injustice, but to them he predicted Taft's failure as president, and he despised Roosevelt. He may have left some written record of his side of this bit of history, but his quiet dignity was never ruffled and his respect for the high title of lieutenant general, was of the old-fashioned sort. He was a man of many intellectual graces, as well as of strong mind, high ideals and lofty principles. A splendid American, a rugged intrepid soldier, and every inch a gentleman. Wisconsin will find that his reputation will grow as time illuminates his record.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MRS. HERSHEL FISHER
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Prairie, Oct. 4.—About forty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. E. Gleason, Tuesday, afternoon, Oct. 1, the occasion being a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Hershel Fisher, formerly Miss Ora Finch of this place. Mrs. U. E. Gleason and Mrs. Alice Coen acted as hostesses. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with music and other entertainments and in looking at the many and beautiful presents showered on the bride. A delightful three-course luncheon was served after which the guests departed, wishing the bride as happy and sunny a life as the day proved to be.

Old Tree of Historic Interest.
Sir Sidney Pocock, J. P., has just disposed of his residence, Charlton Court, Shepperton-on-Thames, Middlesex, England, in the kitchen garden of which is a very old mulberry tree bearing a tablet with the following inscription: "During the reign of Charles II. a fox was hunted from Windsor park and took refuge in this tree, where it was killed. The king, who was present at the kill, expressed a wish that the tree should be preserved to commemorate the longest run on record."

Sunshine Predominates.
If you count the sunny and the cloudy days of the whole year, you will find that the sunshine predominates.—Ovid.
The first of this month, with three months of the year left, the increase showed about 13,000, and it bids fair to break all records, for it is running about 1,000 a month. The Wisconsin Telephone Co. pays for the publication of such news as this for two reasons, first that it is of value to its patrons to know that the service grows steadily more useful, and second that it is an incentive to others to avail themselves of this widely expanding local service, especially as it is a part of the nation wide Bell System. ## EDGERTON YOUNG COUPLE WED THURSDAY EVENING.

William A. Strickler and Miss Emma Rucks Take Nuptial Vows.—Other Edgerton News.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Edgerton, Oct. 5.—William A. Strickler and Miss Emma H. Rucks both of this city, were united in marriage on Thursday evening at the parsonage of the German Lutheran church, Rev. J. C. Spillman officiating. Both bride and groom are popular young people, well known in German circles, and their numerous friends join in extending best wishes. For the present the young couple will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. William Strickler in the third ward.

The Edgerton high school football team went to Whitewater this morning to play the team there.
The C. W. Best Concert company gave a pleasing entertainment last night in the Congregational church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of that church. There was a large attendance. This was the first of the series given by the society.
Edgerton News Notes.
Oscar Lee of Cambridge, a prominent young farmer of that vicinity, transacted business in this city yesterday.

G. F. Strickler went to Milwaukee yesterday to join his wife who went there several days previous on a visit with their daughter. They will return Sunday evening.

F. C. Burpee of Janesville, candidate for county judge at next spring's election, was an Edgerton visitor yesterday.
Miss Mary Keeley of Leyden, is here on a visit to relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McIntyre of Oak Park, Ill., came last night on a visit over Sunday with the lady's parents, Editor and Mrs. F. V. Coon.

A club dance, the second of the series, was given last night in Academy hall, which was largely attended and proved a pleasant social function. Mrs. Harriet Dawson and daughter, Mrs. Ada McKinney of Nora, Neb., are here on a visit of a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dawson.

Mrs. E. L. Shepard of Lewistown, Mont., arrived yesterday on a visit to former old-time friends and neighbors. An auto party consisting of L. C. Whitte, Thomas Westlake, Frank Kellogg and Thomas Whitman went to Beaver Dam, yesterday to attend the

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

SUCCESSES AND CHARACTERS.

A GIRL who had the choice between two lovers has just chosen a successful young business man who is making $3,000 or $4,000 a year in a profitable little business which he has built up himself. The man whom she refused is as good-looking as the first young man, and of a little better social standing, but he has not been successful in business. The neighborhood as usual buzzes with comment on the match, and this is the most common verdict: "Of course she married John (the accepted suitor) because of that good business of his. She used to like Philip mightily well. If that business were his I guess she wouldn't take John quite so quickly. Nowadays girl seem to think money is the only thing."

Now maybe that is true and maybe it isn't. The heart of a maid isn't as much of an open book as these gossips fancy. Her love for this man may be entirely independent of his business success, but supposing it isn't, what then? Does that mean that her critics had any right to think she cared for nothing but money? No it doesn't.

Behind success are the qualities that make success, and the qualities that stand behind a clean success, such as this young man has made, are qualities which any girl may well admire. When a girl is fascinated by a successful young man, that does not necessarily mean that she is fascinated by the money he is making. She may be glad of the money and position, but she may care even more for the force and power that makes him capable of making that money.

We never blame a man for admiring beauty in a woman, why then should we think it any more censurable for a woman to admire force and power—the masculine complements of beauty. Sometimes, of course, the successful man does not possess these characteristics—his success may have come to him through luck or through undesirable methods, and sometimes, of course, the failure has latent power; but nine times out of ten if you see a young man who has made a place for himself in the world you see a man who has something of power and bigness in him; and nine times out of ten when you see a man in a mediocre position, you see a mediocre man.

The girl whom this man is to marry is a young woman who, by her unusual personality, has won excellent social position, of which he is justly proud.

Yet no one accuses him of being in love with her popularity. They realize that he is rather in love with the personality that makes it possible. Why not judge her feelings as kindly?

As a nation we certainly take a deep interest in wealthy people. We eagerly devour the newspaper chronicles of their doings. We point them out on the street. We are vastly excited if our hostess tells us we are to meet a millionaire. And then, again, the more thoughtful of us are sometimes ashamed of that interest. But after all, need we be? The possession of wealth means that either a man or his father had remarkable force of some kind—something that set him apart from his fellows.

Is it not that force rather than the wealth itself to which we make obeisance, and is that anything to be ashamed of?

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you know of anything that will keep my nose from looking greasy? I have tried all kinds of powders, but none of them do any good.

KID.
Dab pure alcohol on the nose two or three times a day.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—We are two handsome girls, one blond and one brunette. How can we fix our hair? It is very thick and straight.

(2)—What will make hair curly? (3)—What makes your face turn red when you are dancing? What is a good remedy? (4)—Is it all right to go automobile at night alone? (5)—One of us is fat? What will make her thin? (6)—The other is skinny. What will make her fat? (7)—If your fellow is away, why doesn't he write often when he claims he loves you? (8)—If a fellow takes you home and says he loves you, why doesn't he make a date with you?

MAMIE F. and SUSIE K.
(1)—The simplest coiffure is the most fashionable now. Part the hair in the middle or on the side, as most becoming, and draw it loosely back, covering the ears, into a loose knot at the back of the head and at the most becoming angle. (2)—You cannot make straight hair curly, but if you will steep a tablespoon of bruised quince seed in a pint of hot water, letting it stand for several hours, and then the liquid with a little toilet water, you will have a very good curling fluid. Brush a little of the fluid into the hair before putting hair on curlers. (3)—The exercise. Nothing will prevent it.

(4)—A nice girl will not think of automobiling. By herself at night. (5)—Diet and exercise. (6)—Eat a lot of nourishing food, drink plenty of milk and water, go to bed early and sleep at least nine hours. (7)—Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of 19 and my husband makes $14.25 a week. When we were married we had nothing to start with. It will be two years this February and now we have furniture for five rooms. Is that doing well? (2)—My husband is 32 years old. I run the house on $4 a week. Is that cheap or not? (3)—I am 5 ft. 4 inches, weighing 135 pounds. Is that good weight?

MRS. MARIE.
(1)—You have done wonderfully well. (2)—You must be very economical to manage on that sum. (3)—Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I invited a girl friend for an automobile ride and told her to bring two of her girl friends and I would have two fellows. We drove to another town and ordered breakfast. My girl friend and one of the other fellows had an argument. He told her if she ate breakfast she would have to pay for it. She got angry and with the other two girls went home alone. I love her dearly. Do you think I did right to let them go home alone?

CONSTANT READER.
You should have furnished the breakfast for all, they were your guests. The other men would probably have wanted to "whack up" the expense with you. You did wrong to let the girls go home alone.

An almond paste called "Marzipan" and the sweet cakes known as "marzipans" are two ways in which they are consumed in quantities. The Marzipan Glace and other candied nuts in crystallized sugar or heavy syrups are more wholesome for young folks than the sugar confections alone.

The nut sundries and nut bisques are well known and have done much to make other nut mixtures popular in the last few years since they have become so common a dessert and ice. Other extensive uses of nuts are in the making of sugared almonds, burnt almonds, nut caramels, and nut brittle. The consumption of these sweets is enormous and growing each year.

Nougat originally was a splendid combination of nuts and honey and was imported from Turkey; now it is made of other ingredients, but is still a wholesome sweet.

Nut coffees, nut oils and meals use up many bushels more of this food so that the product is more useful than is supposed at first glance.

The value of our importations of nuts last year was over $8,000,000, while that of our home-grown ones is still greater.

OUR spectacular opportunities for courage may be few and none at all. Our commonplace opportunity for courage starts when we awake and last until we go to sleep. The courage of the commonplace is greater than the courage of the crisis.

OTHER USES OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Lemons are a good spring tonic, are cooling and thinning to the blood and a most refreshing acid for hot weather.

The juice of grapes is laxative and a fine blood tonic.

Apples are also a skin beautifier, baked are a laxative and most wholesome for invalid diet.

Cranberries are said to cure malaria and erysipelas.

Tomatoes are a quickener of the torpid liver, but should be avoided, by gouty people.

Pineapple contains a digestive agent which is excellent in cases of dyspepsia.

Dates and figs are exceedingly nourishing and are a cure for constipation. Bananas are both wholesome and nutritious if ripe and well scraped.

Water-cress is an excellent blood purifier and spring tonic. Lettuce has a soothing effect upon the nerves, so is good for sufferers from insomnia.

Beets and potatoes put on fat. Carrots are good for the complexion and cure constipation.

Spinach is the broom of the blood, a splendid spring medicine, and is an excellent medicine for the kidneys.

Parsley aids digestion and wards off dyspepsia when eaten with the meal. Also sweetens the breath after eating onions.

Onions are a cure for nervous prostration, are soothing in cases of consumption, excellent for colds, coughs, scurvy, a preventive of insomnia and good in cases of lagrippe and pneumonia. "Kill the onion and you leave a gap in the universe. It is a special creation to tempt the palate of the weary world!"

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN, Food Specialist

WASN'T GREAT VARIETY OF FOOD INTENDED FOR USE?

"What were all these various articles of food made for, if not to eat?" a reader asks. That the hundred and one things, animal and vegetable, were "made" to eat is mere assumption. If we take the Scripture as the guide we find that the number of articles prescribed in Genesis is comparatively small and that some are prescribed that are freely eaten by many Christians. Probably the nation supplied the Israelites in the wilderness was ideal, a monodiet, manna, and the prophet Daniel excluded many things eaten at the king's table, confining himself to a monodiet of pulse and water, with results well known. If, on the other hand, we look to physical science for our guide, we find that all foods are products of evolution. The tomato is a recent addition, developed from a poisonous plant, and there is no element of nutrition in it that is not better supplied by the apple. The difference in substances is due to different rates of vibration. Each food substance affects the organism in a different way, as we know chemical substances do, and the indiscriminate introduction of an unlimited variety of foods cannot tend to the harmony that constitutes health. Practical test proves these principles to be correct.

So she put away the pretty skimpy gowns of her trousseau and by threats and bribes induced her dressmaker to fashion the kind of skirt that would please husband. Then, correctly gowned according to the masculine idea, she bled, forth one day to keep a luncheon engagement downtown with Dear Husband.

When Dear Husband saw her coming he had an internal fit. He steered her into the side streets and tried to induce her to go to a cheap restaurant, where they wouldn't meet anybody he knew. And when he put her on the street car for home he drew a breath of relief.

The bride continued, to wear the skirt that husband approved of, but he didn't invite her to luncheon downtown any more, and he always had some excuse to get out of accompanying her anywhere in public.

Oh, yes—she "tumbled" by and by. The young brides of today aren't such little fools as they were a generation or so ago.

Women are discovering more and more that a man feels his bounden duty to preach morality in clothes to his womanfolk, but that if they follow his preaching he immediately ceases to think of the preacher. He has her roped and hogtied, for he knows no other man will regard her with covetous eyes. Therefore he feels free to roam and admire where he listeth.

One Woman's Way of Seeking Solitude

I TELL you it's hard work to get a few minutes to one's self nowadays," said Mrs. Manydates to her bosom friend.

"It certainly is," sighed her friend.

"The minute I get home the cook wants to see me," went on Mrs. Manydates, "or the children's nurse nabs me to tell me something Marjorie's been doing that she oughtn't to. Or if I go into my room and lock the door, the children are pounding on it to get in. And mornings and evenings and all day Sunday, Jack is tagging around after me. And seems to me the 'phone rings about every five minutes."

Her friend nodded sympathetically. "I know," she said. "I feel sometimes that if I can't get away somewhere just by myself, I'll go crazy."

"That's just my state too. If I go down town without saying anything about it, then Jack thinks it queer that I didn't tell him. And if I tell him, right away he makes a date for lunch. Or if I do manage to dodge him I'm sure to run into some friend or other, who is so terrible glad to see me—'you know how we all hand out the glad hand, even if we are snatching'—"

"I do it myself," said her friend.

"That really there's never a minute you're sure of being alone and left to enjoy your own thoughts."

Both women were gloomily silent for a few minutes.

"I've discovered one way, however," confided Mrs. Manydates. "If you'll swear not to tell a single soul, I'll put you on."

"Cross my heart I won't," responded her friend. "If you'll name a place where I can get far from the madding crowd, you'll not only save my nerves but my doctering reason."

"I took a box in a safety deposit vault—"

"Heavens!" exclaimed her friend. "You don't get in that do you? I draw the line at that. You might be suffocated like Ginevra, wasn't it, or somebody, thousands of years ago."

"Just wait," said her friend. "These boxes are way down in the bowels of the earth somewhere. And an attendant whom I think is a dear, mute takes you down to the most heavenly quiet place."

"But everybody is singing in heaven," interrupted her friend. "Think what noise."

"It's all white marble and open all the way to the top of the building where light comes in through a big glass dome. And by the time the light gets to the bottom it's a nice, quiet, subdued sort of illumination, just the kind to soothe your nerves. Well I rented a box there. I haven't an earthly thing in it, but some blank papers in big, impressive looking envelopes. But when I get to the point where I've just got to have some quiet and a few minutes to myself, I go in there. I get out those papers and look them over and lean back in the chair as if I was trying to decide whether to sell this ten thousand dollar bond and buy a house, or whether sulphur stocks or whatever they are, are better than watered molasses canyons. And when I get myself pulled together and think I can stand the mob case more, I put my securities back—and they are securities, for they secure me my nerves and temper and all that—and go out."

"Well, I never!" exclaimed her friend. "What does a box cost?"

"Only a few dollars a month. And it's worth it."

"I'll get one tomorrow," said her friend.

"Do. But don't come when I'm there, or we'll talk."

DINNER STORIES

In a certain town of Nebraska lives a man who has been so unfortunate as to lose three wives, who were buried side by side. For a long time the economical Nebraskan deliberated as to whether he should erect a separate headstone for each, commemorating her virtues, but the expense deterred him. Finally a happy solution of the difficulty presented itself. He had the Christian name of each engraved on a small stone—"Mary," "Elizabeth," "Matilda."

Suddenly declares the Kansas City man, there was an eruption of arms and legs and the town drunk became the center of town-do-like mass of humanity. Finally he managed to yell out through the door and took to his heels.

"Fishin'" scornfully exclaimed that biggest man. "Him fishin' when the town was goin' dry!"

There was a Kansas City man present who could make affidavit to this story, but he won't. It happened not so long ago, and just why the Kansas City man found himself in the little Missouri town that had gone dry by one vote and was about to close its single saloon is neither here nor there. He was there, all right, and he declares that the following is a true account of what happened:

The Kansas City man, the town marshal and one other were walking up the main street when the Kansas City man was suddenly seized with a thirst.

"I'll show you the way to the saloon, but I won't go with you," said the marshal.

"There's a bunch over there lamenting the fact that the town's going dry and I don't want to have to make any pinches until I get a new padlock for the calaboose door."

Within the saloon there was an air of mingled sadness and hilarity. Six of the brawniest "wets" were in possession and the liquor was flowing fast. The Kansas City man and his friend accepted a general invitation. Just then the town drunk came in.

"Where in thunder have you been?" demanded the largest of the men before the bar.

"Fishin'," replied the town drunk, "just fishin'."

"Where were you the day before yesterday when all this dry votin' was goin' on?"

The town disgrace hung his head. "Fishin'," he said sullenly. "Why, just fishin'."

Dancing Gown of Pink Charmeuse

A dancing gown of pink charmeuse with a tunic of pink tulle to match will be much worn this fall and winter. The high cut on the shoulder and low front is this season's attractive style for low neck.

BABY IN GREAT MISERY WITH RASH

On Face. Spread Until Nearly All Over Body. Crust on Head. Hair Fell Out. Itch Terrible. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Monroe, Wis.—"When my baby was six weeks old there came a rash on his face which finally spread until it got nearly all over his body. It formed a crust on his head, hair fell out and the itch was terrible. When he would scratch the crust the water would come out in big drops. On face and body it was in a dry form and would scale off. He was in great misery and at nights I would lay awake holding his hands so that he could not scratch and disfigure himself. I tried simple remedies at first, then got medicine, but it did no good. Finally a friend suggested Cuticura Remedies, so I sent for a sample to see what they would do, when to my surprise after a few applications I could see an improvement, and he would rest better. I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and before I had them half used my baby was cured. His head is now covered with a luxuriant growth of hair and his complexion is admired by everybody and has no disfigurements. I hope other mothers will profit by my experience and not be worn out with poor babies who are tortured with skin and scalp afflictions." (Signed) Mrs. Annie Saunders, Sept. 29, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

Concerning Dr. Goddard

DR. GODDARD.
The above is a picture of Wisconsin's leading Specialist, who treats Chronic Diseases, without resorting to Surgery or the knife.

For many years past, in certain troubles such as Rupture, Chronic Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Gout, and many Diseases peculiar to Women, it was thought necessary to resort to Surgery.

But in the past few years such brilliant men in the profession as Dr. Mechnikoff of Paris, the leading physician of the world today, Dr. McEwen, Professor of Medicine at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sir Henry Burdette of England, and Dr. Page of Boston, Mass., not to mention many others of great prominence, have become firmly convinced, and have proven that many of these cases can be more successfully, better and more safely cured by modern treatment than by the knife.

And it is along these same advanced lines that Dr. Goddard has had his remarkable success in treating Chronic Diseases without operation.

The Doctor came to Janesville once every four weeks and freely grants consultation to all who may call on him at the Myers Hotel.

He comes to us highly recommended, and has had many of our people as his patients whom he has cured after they had tried many other physicians without relief. In talking with the writer recently the Doctor said: "The tendency among the medical profession in the past has been to put the knife into everybody on the slightest pretext, but with the great advancements that have been made in the Science of Medicine in the last few years, many of the broad minded surgeons have seen the errors of their ways, with the result that they are now resorting to Surgical operations in one quarter the cases that they formerly did. I can truthfully say, and can prove it that 80% of the so called cases of Chronic Appendicitis that have submitted to operations in the past could have been cured much better by our modern methods of treatment, thus saving the patient all the suffering and danger, not to mention the expense that accompanies surgical operations. I have proven the truth of this statement right here in Janesville, and I should like to show you scores of letters, from grateful patients whom I cured to prove it to you also."

The Doctor has lately written a little book that is intensely interesting entitled, "Modern Methods of treating Chronic Diseases without Surgical Operation," which he will gladly send to anyone absolutely free of charge on request.

Anyone suffering from any Chronic condition, especially if it has failed to respond to the ordinary treatment, should certainly avail themselves of the opportunity to consult Dr. Goddard on his next visit to Janesville, on Tuesday, October 8th, at the Myers Hotel or write to him at his permanent address 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis. Send for his little book anyway. It will greatly interest you.

Municipal Affairs Of Vital Interest

NATURE AND PURPOSE OF SOCIAL CENTERS

Give Community Wider and More Extended Use of School Plant—Make Good Citizens.

The social center in one way a return to the use of the school building as it was used in the days of the little red schoolhouse. Then the school house was the place for all neighborhood gatherings, political meetings, religious meetings, social affairs, and the like. As the cities grew up people became less neighborly and the school house was restricted in its use. The social center aims to go back to the good old custom.

That is one view of it. In another way, the social center movement is connected with the movement for efficiency in modern business. No business man would spend vast sums on a large plant, to operate it only for five or six hours a day, five days of the week, nine or ten months of the year. Shrewd school superintendents and board members have seen that the public was not getting the most return on its money by the present method of operating the school, and have taken various plans for the "wider use of the school plant." One of these is the social center. When social centers are installed the school plant can be used all day and evening, six days a week or more, and twelve months in a year. It looks like good business. The cost of operation is not much greater, for the initial charges for the plant, janitor service, etc., have been met.

Now, how are social centers opened? Usually the board hires a civic secretary to assist the people, just as any big club would have its own secretary. The adults of the school district meet, and form a neighborhood civic club. All persons living in the district have the right to belong. This club will have various committees—a program committee, amusement committee, etc. Any questions that the people are interested in may be discussed before this club. But as the discussions will be under the auspices of the neighborhood, not of any party or sect, all sides will be brought out. The radical will be toned down, and the conservative will catch something of the viewpoint of progress.

After the adults are organized, the boys and the girls may be formed into clubs. Often one night is assigned to a men's club, one to the boys and one to the girls, and one to everybody, adults and young people together. For the young people the social center is chiefly of value as furnishing wholesome recreation. For the adults its value is in giving a common meeting place where questions of interest to the neighborhood may be discussed. In every city that has had true social centers, such an interest in the good of the city has been aroused that the pace of congress has been quickened, the city has become a better place to live in, and the fame of the town as a wide-awake community vastly increased.—Ex.

SOME ODD FACTS ABOUT NORTH AMERICAN CITIES.

Madison, Wis.—Some little known facts about American cities have been collected by Prof. H. H. Whitbeck of the geology department of the University of Wisconsin in an article in the last number of the Journal of Geography.

That Massachusetts, one of the smallest states has more large cities than any other state in the union is one of the odd facts brought out. It has twenty-five cities with a population of 25,000 or over. The state of New York has twenty-one cities of this size, while Pennsylvania has twenty.

Texas the largest state in the union has no city of 100,000 or over. There is only one city in Arkansas, Little Rock, that has over 25,000! While New Jersey, only a fraction of its size has fourteen cities of 25,000.

The peculiar fact that four states have one very large city, while the city of second size is almost unknown is also pointed out. For instance, everyone knows that Chicago is the first city of Illinois, and has a population of over two million, but few know that the second city in Illinois is Peoria, only one thirtieth the size of Chicago. While Baltimore has half a million population, Cumberland has only 20,000 inhabitants. New Orleans is twelve times the size of Shreveport, the next city of Louisiana. Milwaukee is nearly ten times the size of Superior, the second city of Wisconsin. There are now nineteen cities in the United States with a population of a quarter million each. Only one of these, New Orleans, is in the south.

FLUSHER STREET CLEANERS ARE FAVORED IN DAYTON.

Dayton, Ohio.—According to Street Commissioner Callahan the cost of cleaning the streets with the new flusher put in use some months ago by the city council, is 69.13 cents per block, while the cost of sweeping the same block with the old fashioned sweepers as in the past is 56.23 cents per block. "So you can see," said Mr. Callahan, "that the flusher is a trifle more expensive than the sweepers. However, from the results obtained in sanitary streets I think that it is well worth the difference. Another thing is to be considered is that with the flusher it is not necessary to go over the streets as much as in the past. The new flusher has not been used on but few of the city streets. One reason for this is that it would be necessary to run two shifts both night and day in order to get over all of the streets. With present water facilities also this is undesirable. The flusher consumes a large amount of water and if used during the daytime the water supply would be so low as to create danger in case of fire. "As soon as the council build the new reservoir I think that we can run two shifts or possibly

SPENDS HALF MILLION ON CIVIC IMPROVEMENT.

Aldeo, Ill., located in Mercer county, according to the census of 1910, has a population of 1,957. It is unquestionably the liveliest town in Illinois regardless of its size.

This is the place, where five years ago, the merchants built a new hotel, and named it the Merchant's hotel. After having invested thirty-five thousand dollars in the hotel, the good people of the town waited an interurban railroad and they raised $55,000 to secure the interurban. After getting the interurban, they raised an endowment fund of $100,000 for William & Vilas college.

The next big project for the town of less than 2,000 people was the construction of a sewer system, costing $100,000. This was quickly followed by deciding to invest $100,000 in street paving. Last year $50,000 was invested in a school house and a public gymnasium.

After having made investments of over a half a million dollars for the good of the town, the merchants started out this week and raised $5,000 for a system of boulevard lights.

MADISON AWARDS CONTRACT FOR COLLECTING GARBAGE.

A special committee, composed of Mayor Heim, Street Superintendent Sullivan and Alderman Pritch, Tuesday afternoon awarded to Dr. J. P. West the contract for the removal of garbage. The contract was awarded to Dr. West for a period of five years. Dr. West will furnish the labor and the teams. By the terms of the contract, he agrees to collect the garbage the first year for $5,280, with a proportionate increase in the terms of the contract as the numbers subscribed shall increase.

The rates which were fixed by the council will still prevail for subscribers. Payments are to be made to the city treasurer as before. All receipts from subscribers for the first year, in excess of $5,280 are to be retained by the city.

Four garbage wagons are now in operation in the city. The drivers and wagons are provided by the city, but the drivers furnish their own horses. Each driver receives $11 per month.—Madison State Journal.

FAVOR ONE HOUR LIMIT FOR AUTOS ON STREET.

(Rockford Register-Gazette.) That the one hour limit for autos or vehicles to stand in the business district is agreeable to all is seen by the blanks which were distributed amongst the merchants of the city. Nearly everyone was in favor of the one hour limit.

The Rockford Motor Club held a meeting last evening in the Leland Hotel and as the above time limit seems to be popular with all it was agreed to have the committee wait upon the members of the city council and attempt to have this inserted in the traffic ordinance. The time limit was the principal topic for discussion at the meeting last evening and the one hour limit is the decision of the members of that body and of nearly everyone else concerned in the question.

RICHLAND CENTER BUYS CHEMICAL FIRE ENGINE.

A new chemical engine, manufactured by the W. S. Nott Co. of Minneapolis has been purchased by Richland Center for the use of the fire department and will be used in fighting fires hereafter. The engine is a "Victor 50", and has a pressure of about 150 pounds. The machine was given a trial Thursday night. Don Green, a representative of the Nott Co., was present and instructed the fire department how to use the machine. A big fire of boxes was built and when the flames had a good start the engine was put in use and fifty-five seconds afterwards the fire was out.

CLINTON GETS CONCRETE PAVING VERY CHEAP.

Clinton, (Ill.) Herald.—Contractors Carey & Son began work Thursday morning on the construction of the concrete surface for the paving of Second avenue, between Third and Fourth streets. The concrete paving of those two blocks is an experiment for Clinton, the contract calling for the concrete work at $1.00 per square yard. The paving is constructed on the same principle as concrete sidewalks, the solid concrete filling being placed on a cinder foundation.

CAN'T USE DOLARWAY PAVING IN ILLINOIS

The road material known as Dolarway paving, cannot be constructed in Illinois, and be paid for by special assessment. This is due to the laws of this state specifying that no patented article shall be used on the streets if the same is to be paid for by special assessment. The material can be used if paid for by general taxation, or taken from general funds.

PATRONAGE OF MILWAUKEE PLAYGROUNDS INCREASING

A report of the attendance of children at playgrounds and summer amusements the past season shows nearly 30,000 more than used the grounds a year ago. Several of the grounds were in connection with the public schools, and their daily average attendance was from 100 to 150. At the public playgrounds from 200 to 400 children put in daily appearance under the weather permitted. At many of the places special exercises were instituted this year, and were attended by thousands of children.—Milwaukee News.

PATENTS INVENTORS.

Morsell & Caldwell, successor to Benedict, Morsell & Caldwell, solicitors of patents, Majestic building, Milwaukee.

waukee, and Robinson Building. Racine, report patents issued to Wisconsin inventors on October 1, 1912, as follows:

Horace S. Bonesteel, Green Bay, Wis., water-gate; Edward Bonness, Martell, sieve-adjuster for sieve-shoes; Admiral N. D. Groff and C. A. Crandall, Pine River, draft attachment; Henry Hancock, Baraboo, stamping machine; Jonathan L. Knight, Fond du Lac, mezzanine knife; Ernest Rossiter, Port Edwards, proofing sulfur dioxide; Emil W. Schukz, Watertown, extension-table; Edward H. Schwartzburg, Milwaukee, grain-sprouter; Wm. A. Shepard, Waukesha, locking attachment for faucets; Fremont L. Whitney, Merrill, foldable table-leg.

CITY AUTOS' EXPENSE LOW.

The advantage of a motor vehicle over a horse drawn rig is shown by the low cost of operation of the auto ambulance and the auto patrol at the police station for the past month. It cost only a trifle over $12 for gasoline to run both autos. The motor-vehicles used up about $1 worth of gasoline.—Racine Daily Times.

GREEN BAY CITIZENS LIBERAL.

The amount required to put the Brown County Woman's building in first-class condition has been subscribed to within $300 by the citizens and business men of Green Bay. There is now required in addition to this about $1,000 for the furnishing of the rest room, the kitchen and assembly room.

COMMISSION FORM IS CHEAPEST

Des Moines, Ia.—It cost the six commission-governed cities in Iowa $2.25 less per capita to operate last year than did the previous year, according to the annual report of the state municipal accounting department. The report shows the commission cities did better all around than the others.

FREEMONT PAVING.

Freemont, Standard. Approximately two miles of streets were paved in the city of Freemont during the past spring and summer.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rana.)

ONE of the few remaining remnants of the Old Guard left in public life is "Uncle Joe" Cannon. If you have never heard of "Uncle Joe" you are probably not a resident of the English language.

"Uncle Joe" is the original stand-patter and doesn't care who knows it. He is a tight Mark Hanna all the latter knew about the business, which was considerable, and he has remained uncorrupted and unswerving throughout his passing years.

"Uncle Joe" has been in congress so long that he is on speaking terms with every flagstone on Pennsylvania avenue. He has witnessed more political births, suicides, and untimely deaths than any other member, unless it is his twin uncle, Senator Shelby Cullom, also of Illinois. Nobody goes to Washington without first asking to see "Uncle Joe" and the Washington monument.

As a defender of our infant industries, "Uncle Joe" has never been approached by any other export. Gen. Grosvenor of Ohio, who could always tear off a fresh roll of tariff statistics and hurt them at the head of the opposition, Gen. Grosvenor retired some time ago at the urgent request of the insurgent element.

"Uncle Joe" was speaker of the house for several terms, and endeavored himself to all concerned by the ruthless manner in which he constructed Roberts' Rules of Order. He was one of the first czars we ever had who wore chin whiskers and a neat porcelain name.

The people of "Uncle Joe's" district have fallen into the habit of electing him to congress, and they attend to every two years in a most shameless and thorough manner. In return for this favor, "Uncle Joe" turns the district with postoffice buildings and a fine time of free advertising.

Despite his stand-patting, there are many things to admire in "Joe" Cannon. He is never found seated astride the political barbed wire fence, with an egg peeled for the bandwagon and he has never been accused of allowing a dime of dirty money to stick to his fingers. He reserves to be well thought of for this, if for nothing else.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS—"CASCARETS."

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue, or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

CLINTON

Clinton, Oct. 4.—Dr. Jennie M. Covert of Belvidere, Ill., came yesterday to visit friends in Clinton for a few days.

Mrs. A. W. Shepard went to Chicago yesterday morning to visit relatives and friends several days.

Oscar Wingate is visiting friends in Rockford.

Will Hay has returned from the Minnesota harvest fields, feeling greatly improved physically and financially.

Miss Marjorie Mayberry left today for Santee, Neb., where she has accepted the chair of art in the Santee Normal Training School. The Nebraska people are certainly to be congratulated in securing the services of a young lady as gifted as Miss Mayberry and her numerous friends here know she will more than "make good."

S. G. Hill was taken very ill while at his work at Hamilton & Company's store yesterday and was compelled to go to his home.

A case of diphtheria at Geo. Robert's home was reported yesterday afternoon by Dr. Mary Montgomery and although the child has been ill since last Saturday the case was not reported until yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. C. Church and daughter Mrs. Velma Davenport of Chicago formally of this place are at the Mayo Bros. hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, where they both will be operated on for throat trouble of long standing. Their many friends here await with great anxiety news of their condition.

Mrs. Anna Olds Wright of Mexico is visiting her life long friend, Miss Mary Sherman.

Miss Kittie Barrett of Beloit is visiting friends here. Miss Barrett and her mother Mrs. Philo Barrett leave next Monday for California to spend the winter.

CONFIRMED PROOF

Residents of Janesville Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Janesville, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Janesville kidney sufferers.

Mrs. Joseph Gower, 302 Eastern Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "The benefit I received from Doan's Kidney Pills when I used them some years ago has been permanent. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy. I was afflicted with kidney complaint for several weeks and was feeling miserable in every way when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co., and the contents of three boxes sufficed to rid me of my trouble. I never fail to advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills when I hear anyone complaining of weak kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON

Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles'

Copyright by W. G. Crampton

Just after eleven I started out to make a further examination of the position. I wasn't such a fool as to march up to the cairn with old Hearn and a warder or two, as it might be, spying on me from another hilltop, so I went down the high road that lay as white and clear across the gray moor as a streak of paint, until I had left the place some distance behind me. No one, so far as I could see, was in sight, and presently I turned off the road along a disused cart track that seemed to lead in the direction I wanted. Its ancient ruts were filled with sprouting heather, and the short moor turf had covered up the hoof-marks with a velvet surface.

I had walked a good quarter of a mile, when, rounding a curve of the hill, I found the old road, explained in the ruins of a small farm, one of those melancholy memorials of a time when frozen meat was unknown, and it paid a man to breed cattle and sheep and cultivate a wheat field or two, even on Dartmoor. The roof had fallen in, and the woodwork had been carried away, but the stone walls of the house and outbuildings still remained, undefeated by a hundred years of storm. A weather-beaten cherry tree was pushing out its spring leafage before the door.

Leaving the farm, I began to climb the cairn hill, as I must call it for want of a better name, which sheltered the farm from the north and west. It was rough walking, for the heather was set thick with granite boulders. At last I reached the top, skirted the mound set about with stones where the prehistoric chief lay sleeping—and very nearly stepped upon the body of that old fellow, Thomas Hearn.

Luckily for me he never turned his head. The wind on the face of the hill was blowing in great gusts like the firing of a cannon, and my footsteps had been drowned in its thunder. I crept back behind a heap of tumbled rocks and dropped on my hands and knees, watching him through a convenient crevice. He lay flat on his chest, while he covered the gang at work in the new ground below with a small telescope.

It might be curiosity, of course, for many men regard a convict as something abnormal, something that is as pleasant to stare at as if he were the cannibal king at a fair. And yet that seemed a weak explanation. Was he in with the police? Had they got news that an attempt at rescue was to be made? If so, I stood the best chance in the world of finding myself in the county jail within the week.

There was nothing to be gained by imagining bad luck. I walked back to the inn, and sat down to a study of the district with maps I had brought with me. There was only one rail-road within many miles, and that was the single track that ran up from Plymouth to Princetown village. At the first signal that a convict had escaped the station would be full of warders; so that outlet was barred. South of the moor, fifteen miles away, ran another branch line ending at Ashburton. But I was determined to leave the railroad alone. The stations would be the first places to be watched by the police. Torquay, some thirty miles away, might easily be reached by a good horse and trap within the day. I could hire one for a month through the landlord, with the excuse that I wanted it for my exploring expeditions amongst the stone remains. It would surprise no one if it were seen off the roads with a luncheon-basket prominently displayed. So I decided.

I questioned the girl who brought the meal to my sitting-room as to old Hearn, but she could give me little information. He had arrived at the inn a couple of days before I appeared, and had spent most of his time in long walks on the moors. She thought he had a friend amongst the prison officials, for she had twice seen him coming out of the great gates down the street. That was all—and it left me more anxious about him than before. It was becoming lay flat on my chest with my head buried in the heather like an ostrich. Once I tried to cut a corner across, what seemed a plot of level turf and struggled back, panting, from the grasp of the bog with the black slime almost to my waist. But I took great credit for my performance since the old man tramped steadily forward, showing no sign of having seen me.

He did not climb the cairn hill as I had half expected, but skirted along the base until he came to the track which led to the ruined farm. Down this he walked quickly and passed through the doorway of the main building. I remained upon the slope of the hill, waiting for him to reappear. Five, ten minutes went by, and then my curiosity got the better of my prudence. I determined to go down and see what he was about.

The place was sheltered from the gale, but I could hear it yelping and humming in the rocks above, now and again a gust came curling up the valley, setting the heather whispering around me. I crept forward over the soft turf of the cart track, reached the gap where the door had been, hesitated, listened, and then stuck in my head.

I had been a boxer in my time, or that would have been the end of me. As I ducked, the heavy stick flicked off my cap and crashed into the wall with a nasty thud. I jumped back, and he came storming out through the doorway like a madman. I never saw more heavily fury in a man's eyes. I side-stepped, and he missed me again—it was a knife this time. Then I woke up and let him have it with my right under the ear. He staggered, dropping the knife. As he stooped to pick it up, I jumped for him and in ten seconds more was sitting on his chest, pegging out his arms on the turf. He tried a struggle or two, but he soon saw that I was far the stronger man, and so lay panting, with a hopeless despair in his face, that, in a man of his age was shocking to witness. He had tried to kill me, but, on my honor, I felt sorry for him.

"Well, Mr. Hearn," I said, "and what does this mean?"
"Too old," he gasped. "Twenty years ago—different. How did you suspect? It was justice—nothing but bare justice, by Heaven!"
"Now, what in the world do you think I am?" I asked him, in great surprise.
"A detective. You couldn't deceive me."

I got to my feet with a curse at the middle I had made of it, and he sat up staring at me as if he thought I had gone clean crazy of a sudden.
"I'm no detective," I said angrily, "though I was fool enough to believe you were one."

"Then why did you follow me to-night?" he asked, with a quick suspicion.
"Why did you try to kill me?" I said. "The truth is, Mr. Hearn, you and I are playing a risky game. Is it to be cards on the table, or are we to separate and say no more about it?"

He sat watching me for a time with a puzzled look. Plainly he was in great uncertainty of mind.
"Perhaps I have nothing to tell," he said at last.

"A man does not attempt to murder detectives unless he has a crime to conceal."
"That is true," he said, nodding his head; "very just and true."

There was nothing to be gained by a long bargaining of secrets with him. Whatever his business, he could speedily discover mine if he chose. If I were honest with him he might return the confidence.

"I am arranging for the escape of Julius Craig, now doing his time in the prison yonder," I told him.
"Julius Craig!" he echoed, with wild eyes. "The escape of Julius Craig?"

"Yes. Do you know him?"
He burst into a scream of hysterical laughter, swaying his body to and fro, and pressing his hands to his sides as if trying to crush the uncanny merriment out of him; and then, before I guessed what he was about, the old fellow was upon me, with his arms about my neck in mad embrace.

"Welcome, comrade," he cried. "I, too, have come to find a way out of Princetown jail for Julius Craig."

It took a good five minutes and a pull out of a flask to get him back to hard sense. Then he told me his story sitting on a fallen stone under the old cherry tree.

Craig was dearer to him than any brother, he said, with a burst of open sincerity. There was that between them that he could never forget while he remained to him. He had heard how the man had come under prison discipline, and had come to help him escape if that were humanly possible. Of me or my London employers he knew nothing whatever.

He had been shown over the prison, having obtained a pass from an influential friend, and while there had learned the place where Craig was daily employed. Yesterday from the cairn hill he had satisfied himself that the convict was working in the gang.

He had crept out this evening to examine the stream and hedge which divided the new enclosure from the moor. When he saw me on his track, his suspicions as to my business were confirmed. Either he must give up his project or my mouth must be stopped. So he tempted me into the ruined farm. The rest I knew.

He spoke in an easy, pleasant voice, with a perfect frankness and good humor. It never seemed to occur to him that he had done anything unreasonable, anything to which a level-headed man could object. I stared at him in growing amazement.

There seemed, indeed, only one solution before me—that he had become partially insane.

"You must understand my position, Mr. Kingsley," he concluded. "I am not a lunatic, but I have made up my mind in this matter of Julius Craig. Any one who is foolish enough to come between us must stand aside or take the consequences. Towards yourself, for example, I had no ill will. In fact, I rather liked you. But you must admit that, as a detective, your presence was excessively inconvenient. Now that I know the truth, I welcome you as a most valuable ally. I am prepared to trust you absolutely. Come, what are your plans?"

I told him as we walked back to the inn. He expressed himself an admirer of my simplicity as we parted for the night. Mad or not, I had found an assistant who would be of great help to me. So I let it stay at that and slept like a rock till nine next morning.

Matters moved quickly with us. I hired a stout horse and a two-wheeled cart for a month from the landlord to whom I talked need little man of an evening, impressing him with a learning, acquired from the reports of that worthy society the Devonshire association. I preferred to drive myself, declining the boy offered for that purpose. There were no other preparations to make; and so, on the day following, that earnest student, Mr. Abel Kingsley, might have been seen smoking his pipe on the cairn hill in a white mackintosh, for there was not a threat of rain in the air; while Mr. Thomas Hearn lay hid amongst the stones watching the effect of the signal through his pocket telescope. He reported all well; Julius Craig had undoubtedly noticed the white waterproof, and understood that we were waiting for him.

I could talk to you for an hour of our doings in the next three weeks. We lived on the edge of a powder barrel in which we had set the fuse. Never a morning but we were up with the sun, staring to windward for signs of the weather. Would it be today, tomorrow—not at all? A nervous man would not have stood that strain; but we were not a neurotic couple, the old chap and I.

(To be Continued.)

Mr. Butler H. Bates, 72 E. 12th St., Fond du Lac relates: "Kidney trouble bothered me for a long time. I had also a severe pain across my back and other irregularities when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills. I got them and began taking them with the result that the pain left me and the action of my kidneys became normal and after taking four bottles, I am better than I have been for years." #### LIMA Lima, Oct. 4.—Mr. Duge and family expect to move to Milton soon, where Mr. Duge has work.

Mesdames Curran and Meryel of Milton Junction spend Thursday with Mrs. J. Collins.

Charley Brown came near losing his barn by fire on Thursday. A straw stack near by burned and it was only by prompt action that the farm buildings were saved. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Mrs. Fred Gould and daughter spent Wednesday at A. P. Anderson's in Janesville.

Mrs. Reese is on the sick list. A band of gypsies made things lively here for a little while Thursday afternoon and a crowd of Milton students entertained in the evening. The first were a nuisance, the latter may come again.

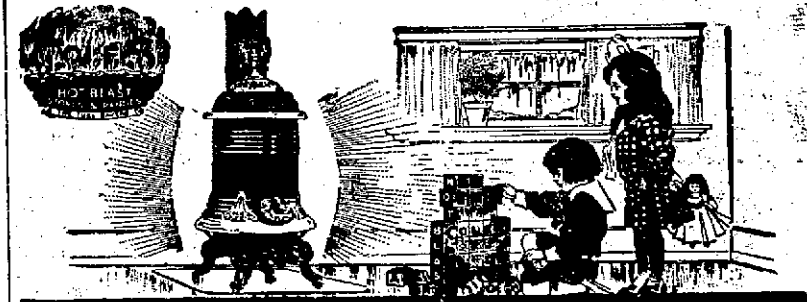

Orra Gould went to Sun Prairie Friday for a few days' visit with friends.

Warm Floors and Healthy Children Make Happy Homes

There is no better way for you to avoid worry and expense than by insuring your children's health.

Warm floors in the home, which is the children's play house in winter, are assured when using Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater.

The steel base and body construction allows the heat to be radiated to the floor keeping it warm during the coldest weather.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The Cleanest—Easiest to Care For Burns Soft Coal, Lignite, Hard Coal, Crushed Coke, Wood and Cobs.

Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big care to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, curtain washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the ease of operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast.

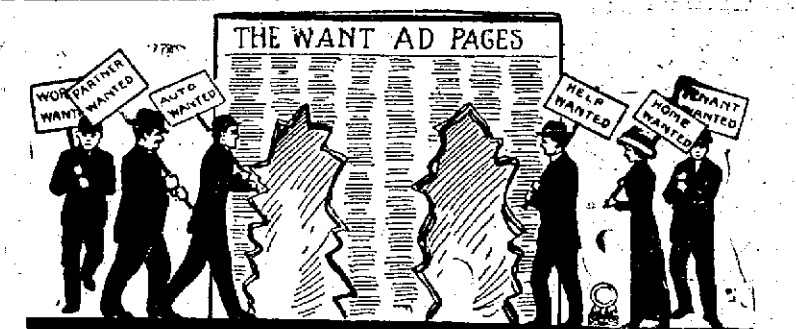

Cole's Hot Blast has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door—open the feed door and the current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of stove to the stove pipe—away from the opening. Contrast this simple, cleanly feed with the side door in an ordinary heater. The side door used on other stoves permits escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant gas and accumulated soot drops from it. If you overfill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. And note this, you cannot make a side door heater air-tight—an everlasting advantage in favor of Cole's Hot Blast which is air-tight and guaranteed to remain so always.

No fires to build—the fire is never out in this remarkable heater from fall until taken down in the spring.

Better select one today—surely it is the heater you need—
